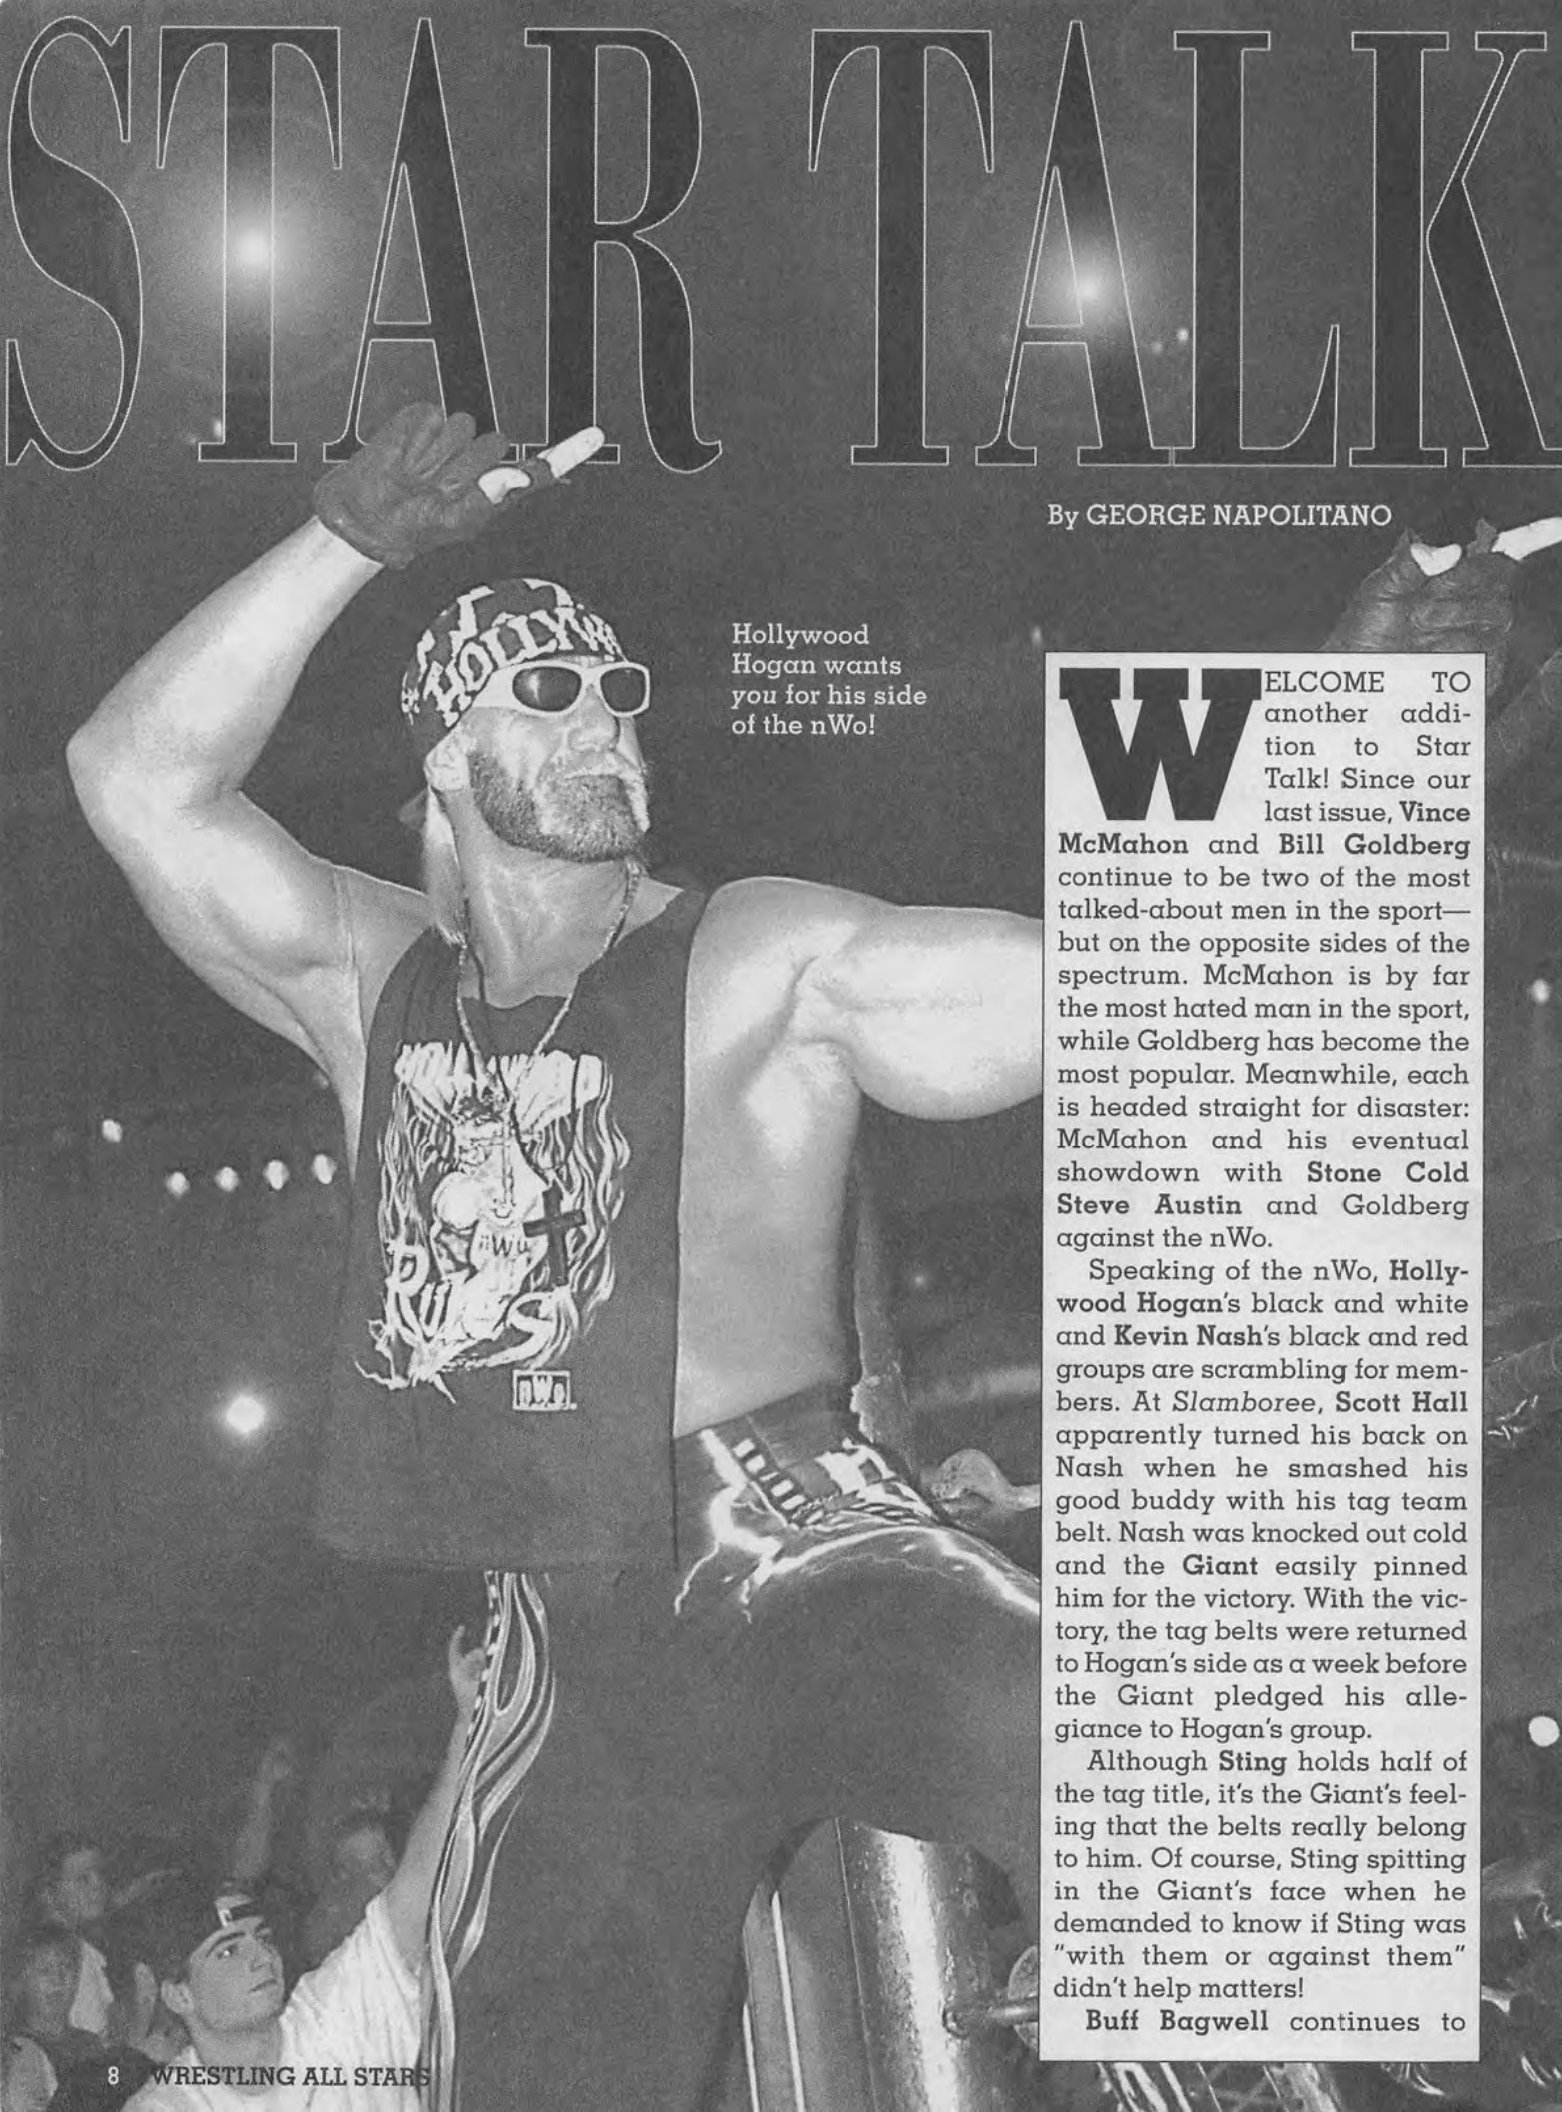
STAR TALK

By GEORGE NAPOLITANO



Hollywood Hogan wants you for his side of the nWo!

WELCOME TO another addition to Star Talk! Since our last issue, Vince McMahon and Bill Goldberg continue to be two of the most talked-about men in the sport—but on the opposite sides of the spectrum. McMahon is by far the most hated man in the sport, while Goldberg has become the most popular. Meanwhile, each is headed straight for disaster: McMahon and his eventual showdown with Stone Cold Steve Austin and Goldberg against the nWo.

Speaking of the nWo, Hollywood Hogan's black and white and Kevin Nash's black and red groups are scrambling for members. At Slamboree, Scott Hall apparently turned his back on Nash when he smashed his good buddy with his tag team belt. Nash was knocked out cold and the Giant easily pinned him for the victory. With the victory, the tag belts were returned to Hogan's side as a week before the Giant pledged his allegiance to Hogan's group.

Although Sting holds half of the tag title, it's the Giant's feeling that the belts really belong to him. Of course, Sting spitting in the Giant's face when he demanded to know if Sting was "with them or against them" didn't help matters!

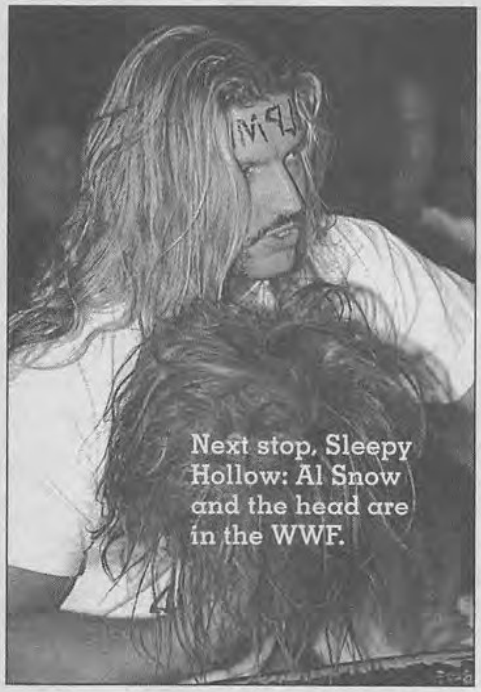
No more free admission to Dollywood: Goldust has wigged out and turned into Dustin Runnels.



Next stop, Sleepy Hollow: Al Snow and the head are in the WWF.

recover from his injuries. While Buff suffered several broken vertebra, his surgery was a complete success! Doctors won't know for several months if Buff can ever wrestle again, but he is on the mend!

The "mysteriously absent" Ric Flair has made People Magazine's online "Top 10 Most Beautiful People" list. Flair came in at number two. Congratulations, Nature Boy!

Degeneration-X continues to wreak havoc with its "war" against WCW. Some of the best clips of the year has to be D-X "invasion" of Atlanta. Seeing them spray paint the CNN building and Hunter Hearst Helmsley's plea to WCW to "let my people (Hall and Nash) go" was priceless!

The next ECW pay-per-view will take place on August 2 in Indianapolis, Indiana. Expect to see Taz take on Shane Douglas for the ECW heavyweight title. Also on the card, Sabu and Rob Van Dam will square off for the TV title.

"The Head is Dead!" That's the word out of the ECW camp. Meanwhile, Al Snow and his head have found their way to the WWF, where no doubt they will become even more popular than they were in ECW.

Eric Bischoff, fresh off his "victory" over Vince McMahon at Slamboree, claims that he will break Bill Goldberg's consecutive winning streak. Bischoff wants to face Goldberg should the awesome champ make it to 99 and 0!

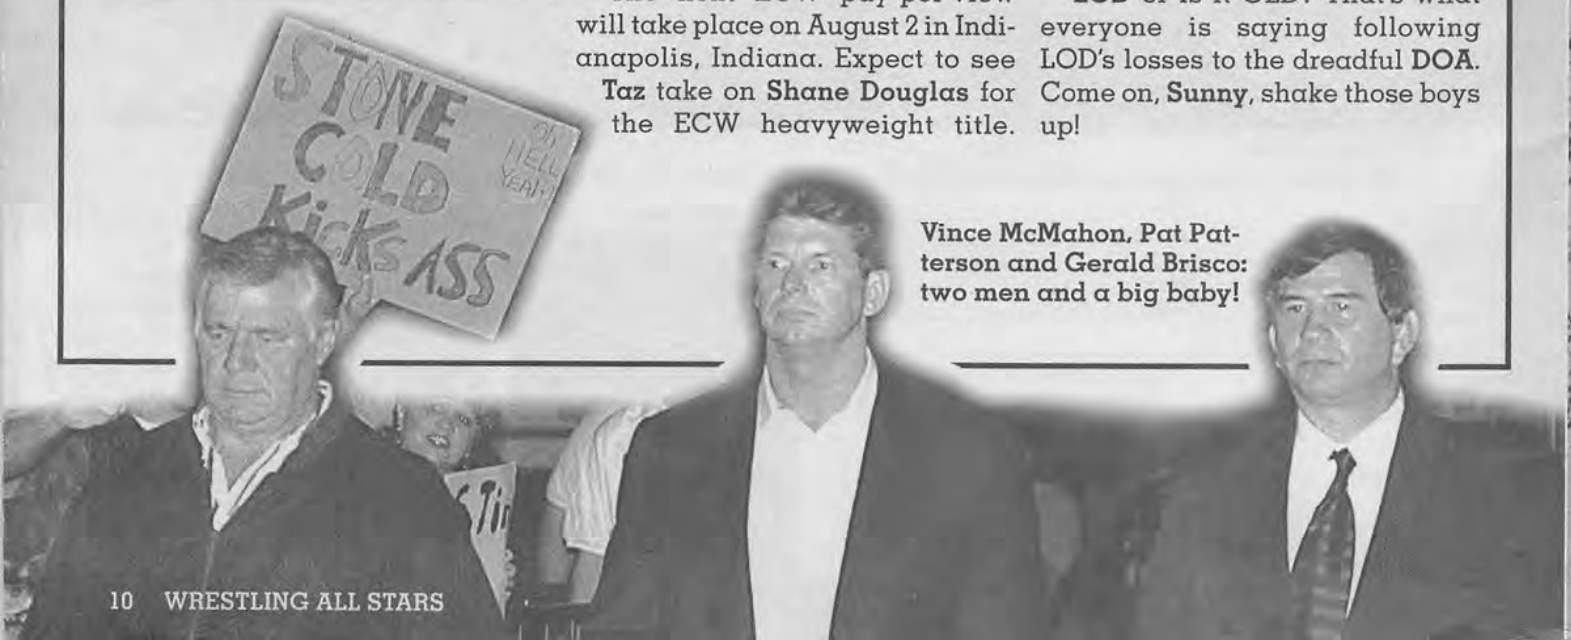
The "all new" Dude Love sure looks strange wearing Vince McMahon's out-of-date sport jackets. Also, McMahon flunkies Pat Patterson and Gerald Brisco have become more hated than they ever were when they were active wrestlers.

Goldust is no more. From now on he wants to be referred to by his legal name, Dustin Runnels. Rumor has it that Marlena will join him again in the WWF. Will we see Mr. Runnels take on the newly-christened Goldgut?

Can you believe the Jackyl's new stable of oddities? While Luna would be enough for any carnival sideshow, having Hank, the angry drunken dwarf, Goldgut and who knows who else truly makes the Jackyl King of the Freaks!

LOD or is it OLD? That's what everyone is saying following LOD's losses to the dreadful DOA. Come on, Sunny, shake those boys up!

The Giant has sold out WCW yet again.



Vince McMahon, Pat Patterson and Gerald Brisco: two men and a big baby!

After several months off, Dean Malenko returned to the WCW scene and promptly defeated Chris Jericho to win the cruiserweight title. Expect Eddie Guerrero to challenge his old nemesis for the title. Speaking of Guerrero, Eddy is keeping nephew Chavo Jr. in check. Chavo would have been set free if the Ultimo Dragon had defeated Eddy at Slamboree, but Guerrero won.

It was quite a battle that the Macho Man and Bret Hart had at Slamboree. While Hart considers himself the best there is, was and ever will be, one has to admit that the Macho Man had him on the verge of defeat numerous times. Not only that, but Hart needed brass knuckles to knock out the Macho Man. And don't forget that Hollywood Hogan came to Hart's aid. If Hogan hadn't helped, Hart may not have won.

Incidentally, for the past six weeks Hollywood has been traveling from Vancouver, BC, where he is filming his next epic classic, to make his Nitro, Thunder and pay-per-view dates.

There's a good possibility that Madusa will return to the WWF. If you've forgotten, after Madusa left the WWF the first time, she dumped her WWF women's championship belt in a garbage can on WCW Nitro. Afterwards, Madusa wrestled for close to a year in WCW, but she never achieved the notoriety she had in the WWF. After humiliating the WWF like that on national TV—to think they'd take her back! It only goes to prove that if the powers that be think they can use you, you can always come back "home."

It looks like Steven Regal will make his WWF debut very soon. He knows Steve Austin well from their WCW days, so he may prove a challenge to the champ.

With Dan "The Beast" Severn starting to make his presence felt in the WWF, look for a Severn-Ken Shamrock match to take place in the near future.

Mr. Yamaguchi San and his Japanese co-horts Kaientai have declared war on Taka Michinoku and Justin Hawk Bradshaw.

After Sable powerbombed him, "Marvelous" Marc Mero doesn't look so marvelous after all.

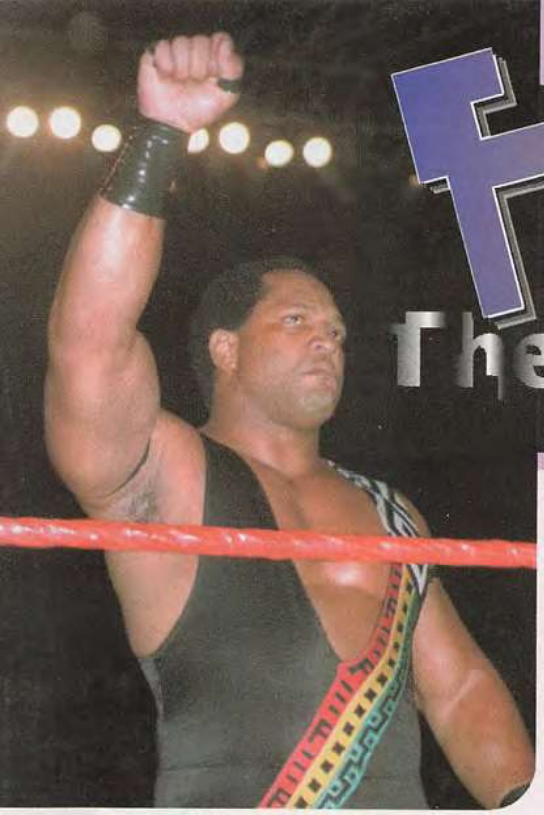
In a behind the scenes move, the WWF has hired Janie Engle, who for the past several years has been Eric Bischoff's executive secretary. Actually, Janie was much more that a mere "secretary." She was the only person in the entire WCW organization that knew every aspect of the entire operation. If there was anything you needed to know from travel arrangements to TV production, Janie was the person to ask. While wrestlers may come and go, Janie's loss will be hard to replace.

That's all for this issue. See you at ringside!

Ric Flair came in at number two in People Magazine's online poll of the 10 most beautiful people of 1998. The Nature Boy still rocks!



Faarooq
The WWF's Terminator

By DONNY LAIBLE

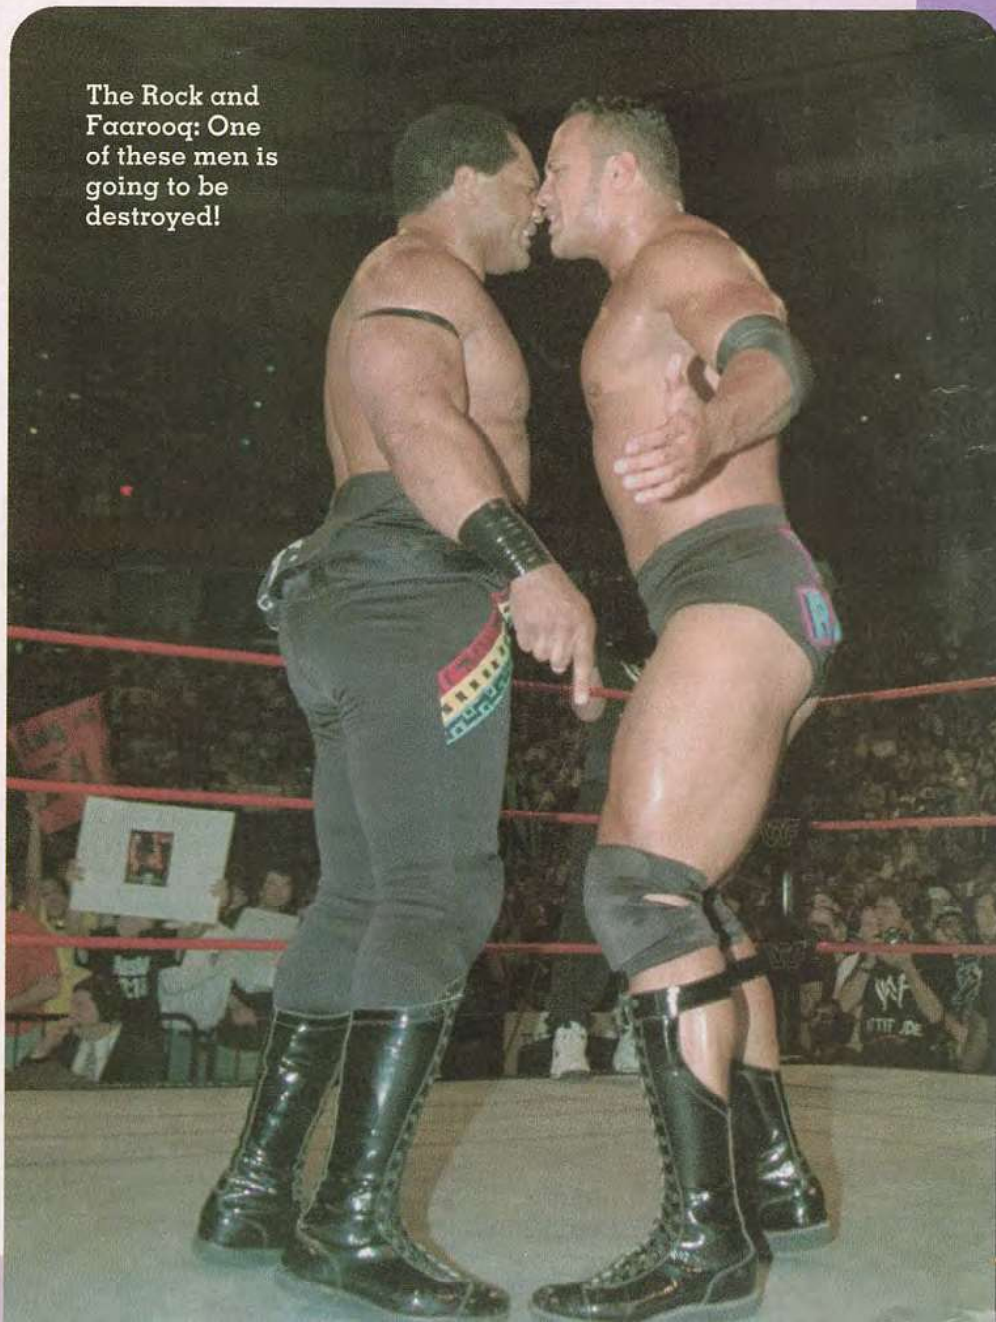
Faarooq doesn't need anyone to stick up for him, but it would be nice if more people in the WWF supported him.

There's a no doubt about it, Faarooq is angry. Rocky Maivia and the remaining members of the Nation, a crew formerly under Faarooq's leadership, are the central cause of his hostile attitude. Turning their back on Faarooq has serious payback implications for "The Rock," as well as anyone else who dares cross him.

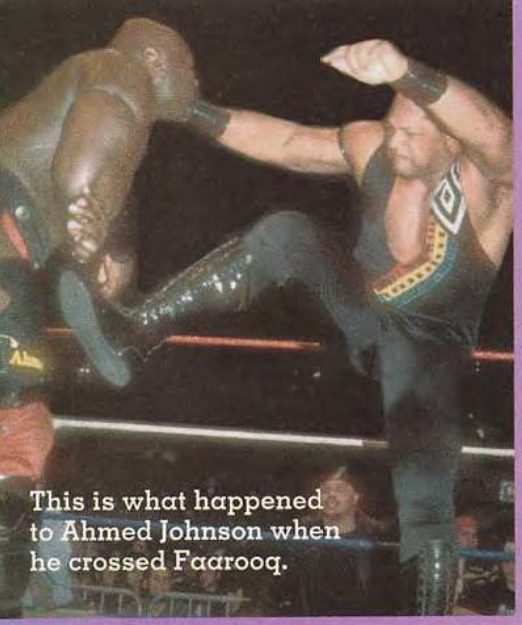
And why shouldn't Faarooq be upset? He took The Rock under his wing and molded him into the Intercontinental champion. As the record books show, there have been no titles won by Faarooq since being brought into the WWF by Sunny. Contrary to popular belief, Faarooq, AKA Ron Simmons, is not a selfish individual.

Who better to attest to the man's generosity and instructing abilities than members of the Nation? First up, Kama Mustafa. A short while ago, Mustafa was living in Las Vegas, dabbling part-time in wrestling after memorable but "cups of coffee" stints as Papa Shango and later as plain old Kama. Faarooq recognized the positives about Kama, the man and the athlete. Brought into the Nation's fold, Faarooq's reward for investing his time in his pupil from the desert was nothing, not an ounce of gratitude.

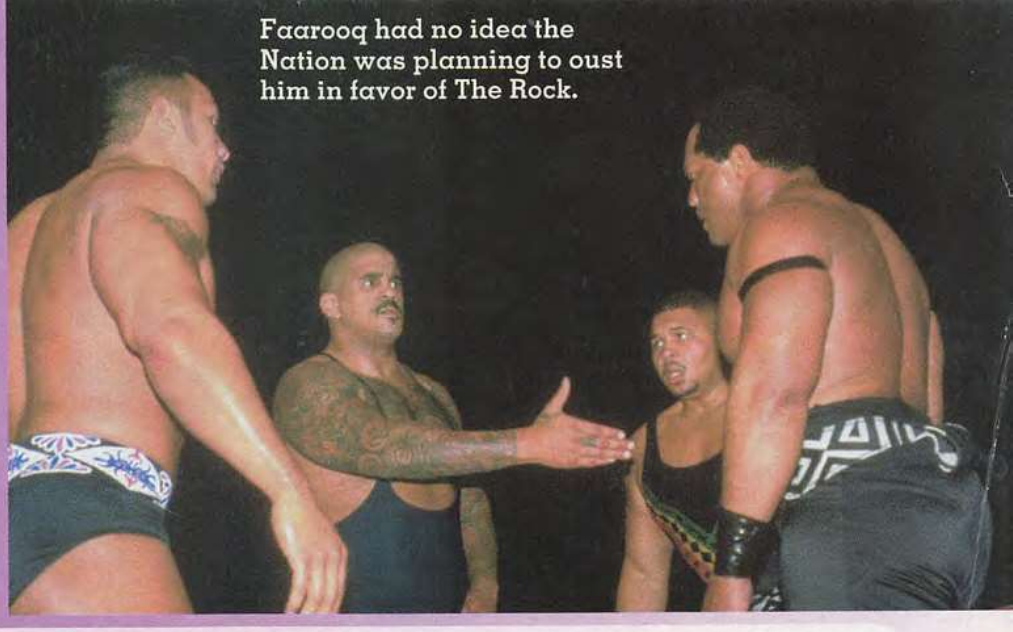
D-Lo Brown, like his pal Kama, was once scrambling for bookings wherever promoters made him an offer. Michigan one night, Tennessee the next was typical for the wrestler looking to "find himself." Faarooq, hearing nothing but good things about D-



The Rock and Faarooq: One of these men is going to be destroyed!



This is what happened to Ahmed Johnson when he crossed Faarooq.



Faarooq had no idea the Nation was planning to oust him in favor of The Rock.

Lo's work ethic and loyalties, made Brown the first of his Nation's hires.

As the bodyguard and frequent tag partner to Faarooq, D-Lo's selling out hurts Faarooq the most.

Mark Henry, the Olympian weightlifter, who in part to injury made a quick exit from the Federation during his first tenure, ought to kiss the ground Faarooq walks on. Henry's first go-around with the WWF, at best and in being polite, was lackluster.

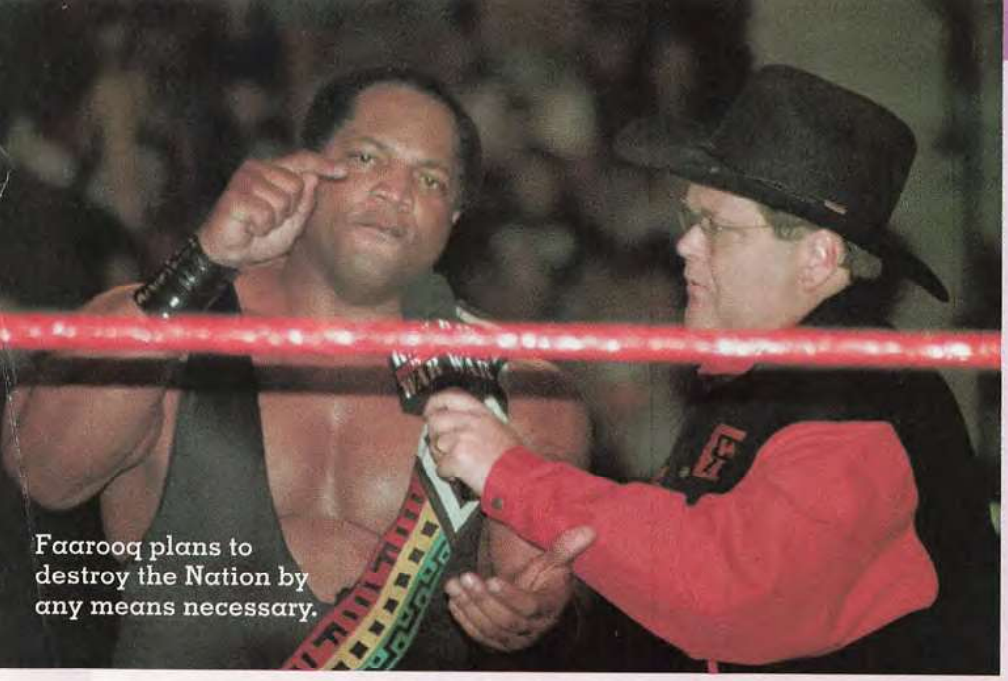
After suffering a broken leg during training, most within wrestling had written off Henry as an experiment. A project, as the term is used so frequently in sports, gone bad. Enter Faarooq.

The Nation's former leader installed confidence in Henry 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Now, as the former Olympian glides about the ring and pushes his body high in the air for splashes and assorted power moves, there's no thanks to the man who transformed him from a forgotten never-was to a central figure in the Federation.

Kama, D-Lo and Henry now serve up kicks to their mentor's teeth and drop elbows on Faarooq's head—all on orders coming from the Nation's Judas, The Rock. When it comes to saying thank you, the biggest Hallmark card should come from Rocky Maivia.

Teaching the third-generation wrestler most of what he knows from years of ring wars, Faarooq, of Warner-Robbins, Georgia, viewed Rocky as his protegé. He envisioned the former Miami Hurricanes college football star as the heart, soul and foundation of the Nation's future. And Faarooq, a football standout

The Nation's betrayal of Faarooq was a painful one.



Faarooq plans to destroy the Nation by any means necessary.

Japan's Hiro Matsuda, a successful wrestler in the '60s and '70s, Faarooq, then as Ron Simmons, tried to adopt a style that would propel him from mediocrity to world champion. Perseverance paid off in dividends. With Butch Reed and manager Teddy Long, the masked twosome billed as Doom collected the NWA tag team belts in 1990.

Once removing the mask and turning to single matches, Simmons' total commitment paid off when he bested Vader for the WCW Heavyweight championship in Baltimore, Maryland on August 2, 1992.

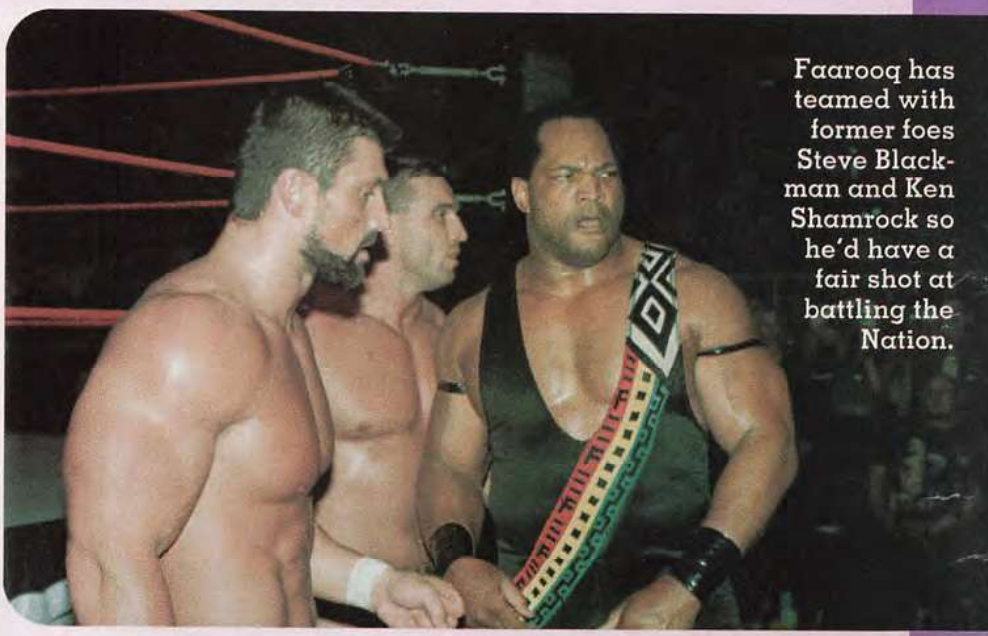
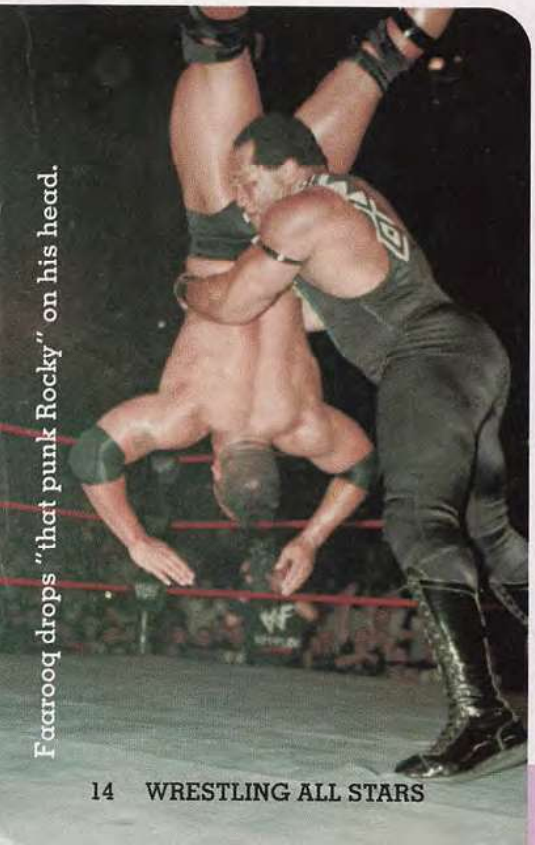
During the five months he in college at Florida State and professionally with the United States Football League, never once denied The Rock opportunities for championship bouts.

"My boys don't realize how well they had it when I was calling the shots instead of that punk kid Rocky," Faarooq said. "I never took a dime of their earnings. We were getting to the level such as a playoff-bound football team, then Rocky's head and ego went crazy."

Faarooq vows to do all he can to dismantle the Nation he built from scratch.



Faarooq has teamed with former foes Steve Blackman and Ken Shamrock so he'd have a fair shot at battling the Nation.



Faarooq drops "that punk Rocky" on his head.

And those who have tangled with Faarooq know that the 6'2" 260 lb. terminator always follows through on his promises.

There have been discussions, albeit premature, of Faarooq joining either the Disciples of Apocalypse, Skull, 8-Ball and Chainz or the Legion of Doom 2000, in assaulting the Nation and Degeneration-X.

Faarooq has a plethora of options to weigh in what to pursue. However, such options were not always the case. His career at one stage resembled an erratic EKG reading in a doctor's office—a million ups and downs. After being trained in the ring by proudly represented WCW as a role model leader before losing the belt to Sting, Simmons was proudest of the fact he was WCW's first black heavyweight champ. A couple of years later, after leaving WCW when no longer in its main events and then a few appearances in ECW, Simmons was completely removed from wrestling.

Employed as a supervisor at a Coca Cola bottling plant near his hometown, convinced that his best days were still ahead of him in the ring, Simmons, 34, could only sit and wait for a telephone call offering an opportunity. Sunny, who was guiding the Bodydonnas tag team at the Mark Henry gets a beating from the man who saved his wrestling career.

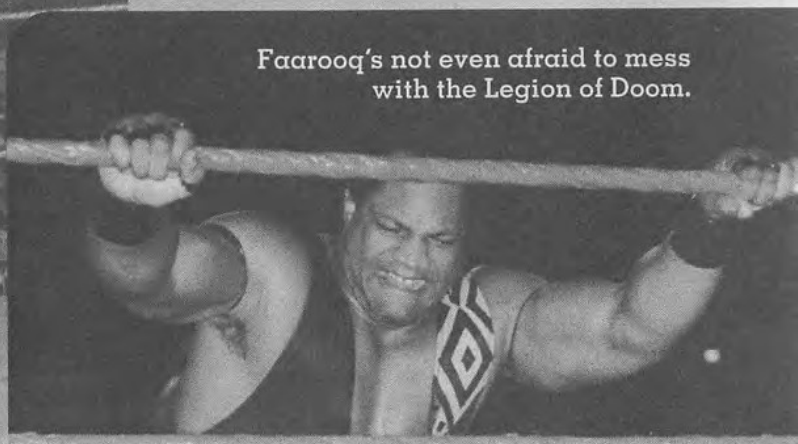
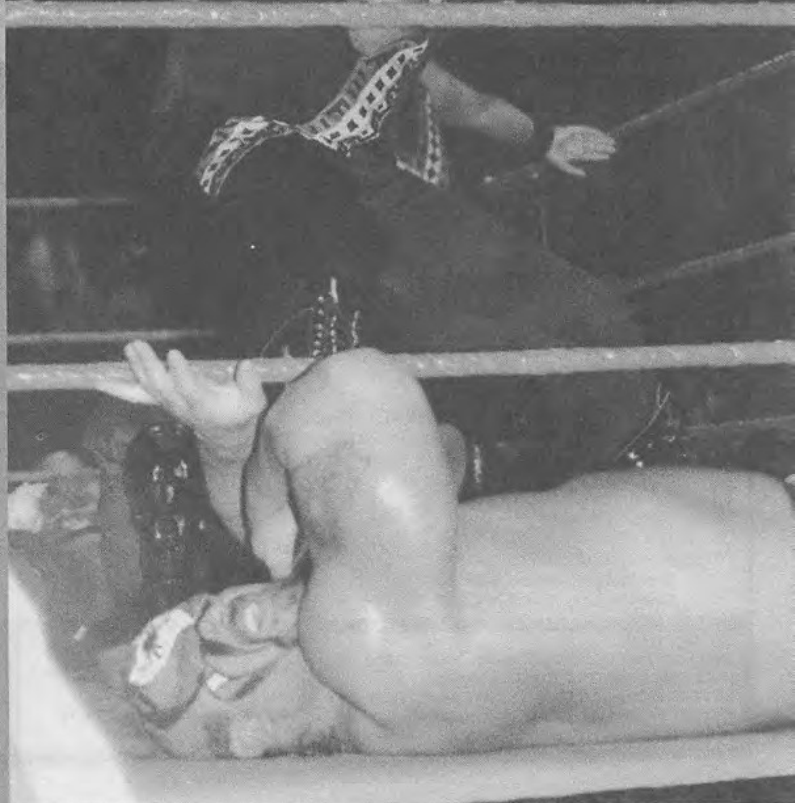
You can bet that Faarooq will get his revenge!



Faarooq's not even afraid to mess with the Legion of Doom.



time, made a pitch to Ron he couldn't refuse.

Simmons saw the WWF as a new lease on his career and life.

"This was going to be a complete makeover for me. I changed my name, beliefs and wrestling strategies," Faarooq said. "This time, I was a lot wiser and experienced in dealing with people in the front office. I was not going to 'settle' but get what I deserved. I never want to forget what it feels like to struggle. So I created, not Rocky or excuse me—the Rock—The Nation. Now look what that punk has reduced the Nation to."

Faarooq has reserved comment on Owen Hart's status with the Nation until more details unfold as to the role which Rocky "pulls his puppet strings." Biting the hand that feeds you usually transcends into a harsher payback. Take heed, Nation. The greed and cockiness exhibited by all who walk on the wrong side of Faarooq will be answered by any means necessary.

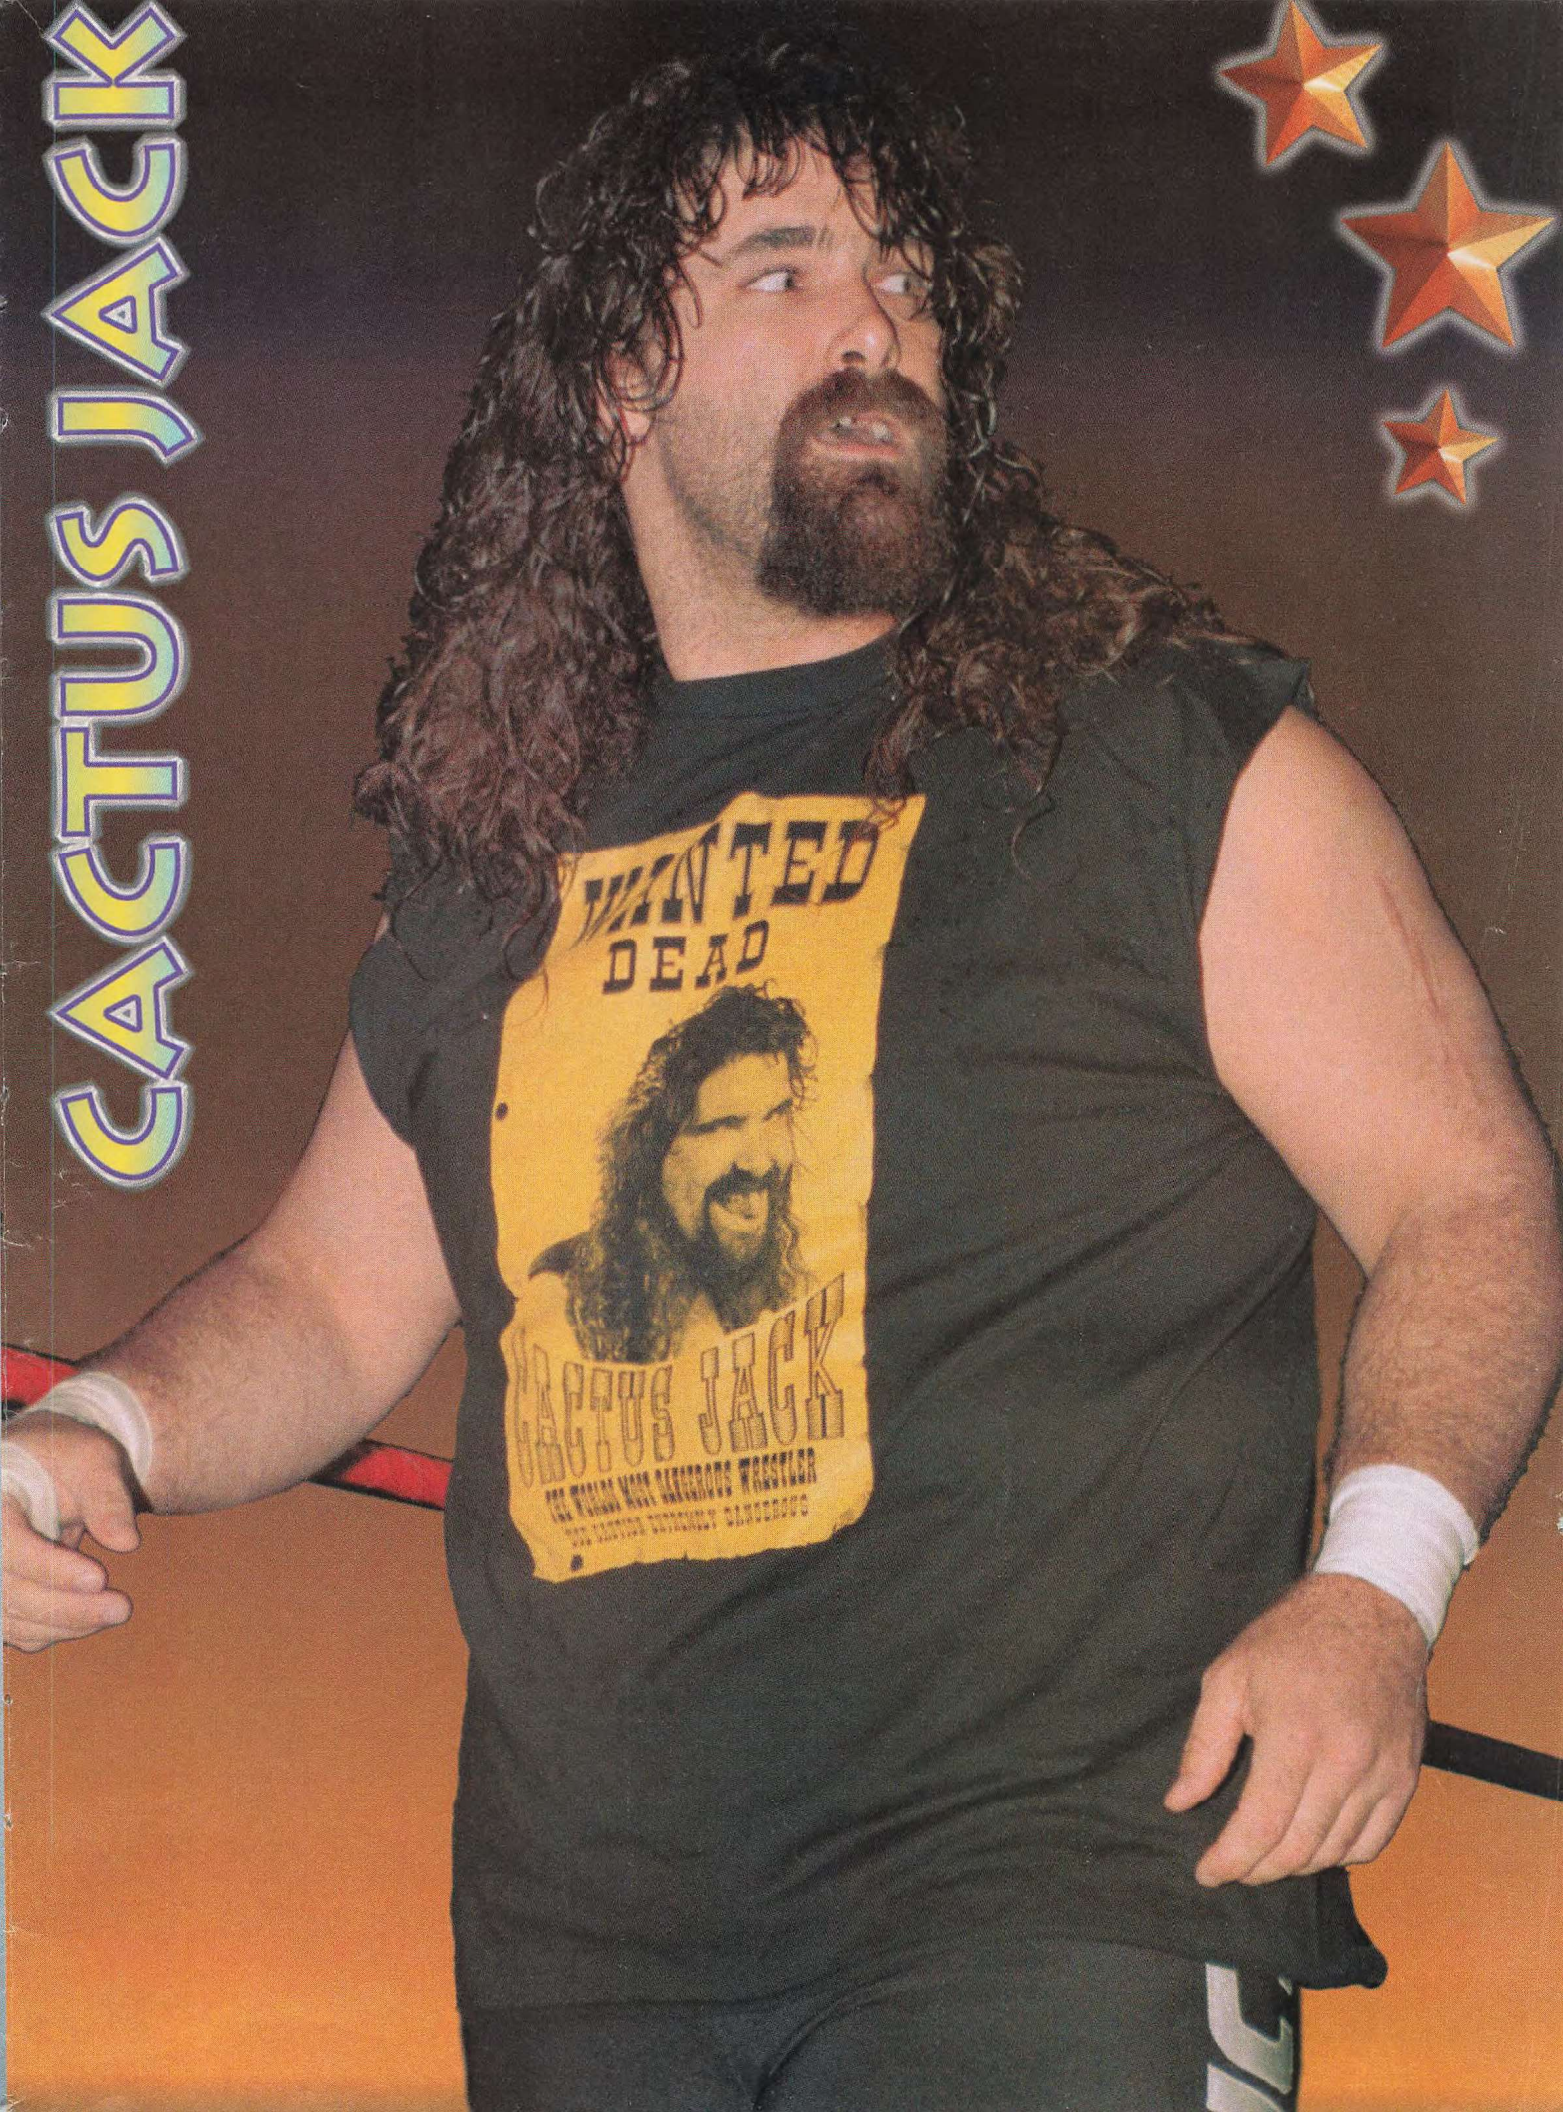
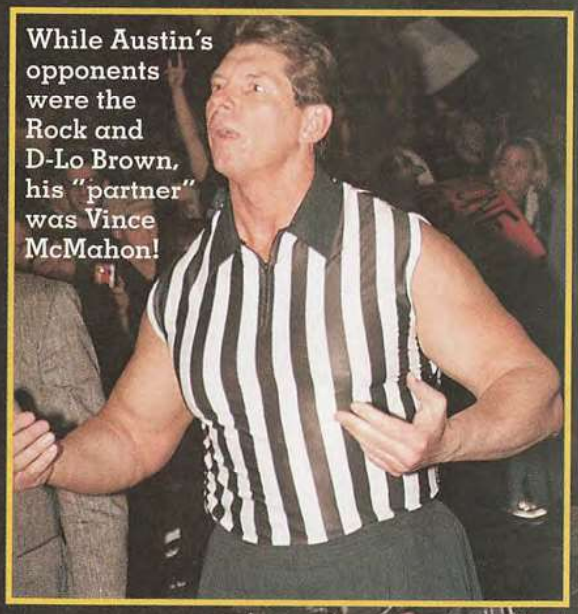
CACTUS JACK



DOUBLE CROSS

On Raw, Vince McMahon announced that Steve Austin would wrestle a tag team match with a "mystery partner."

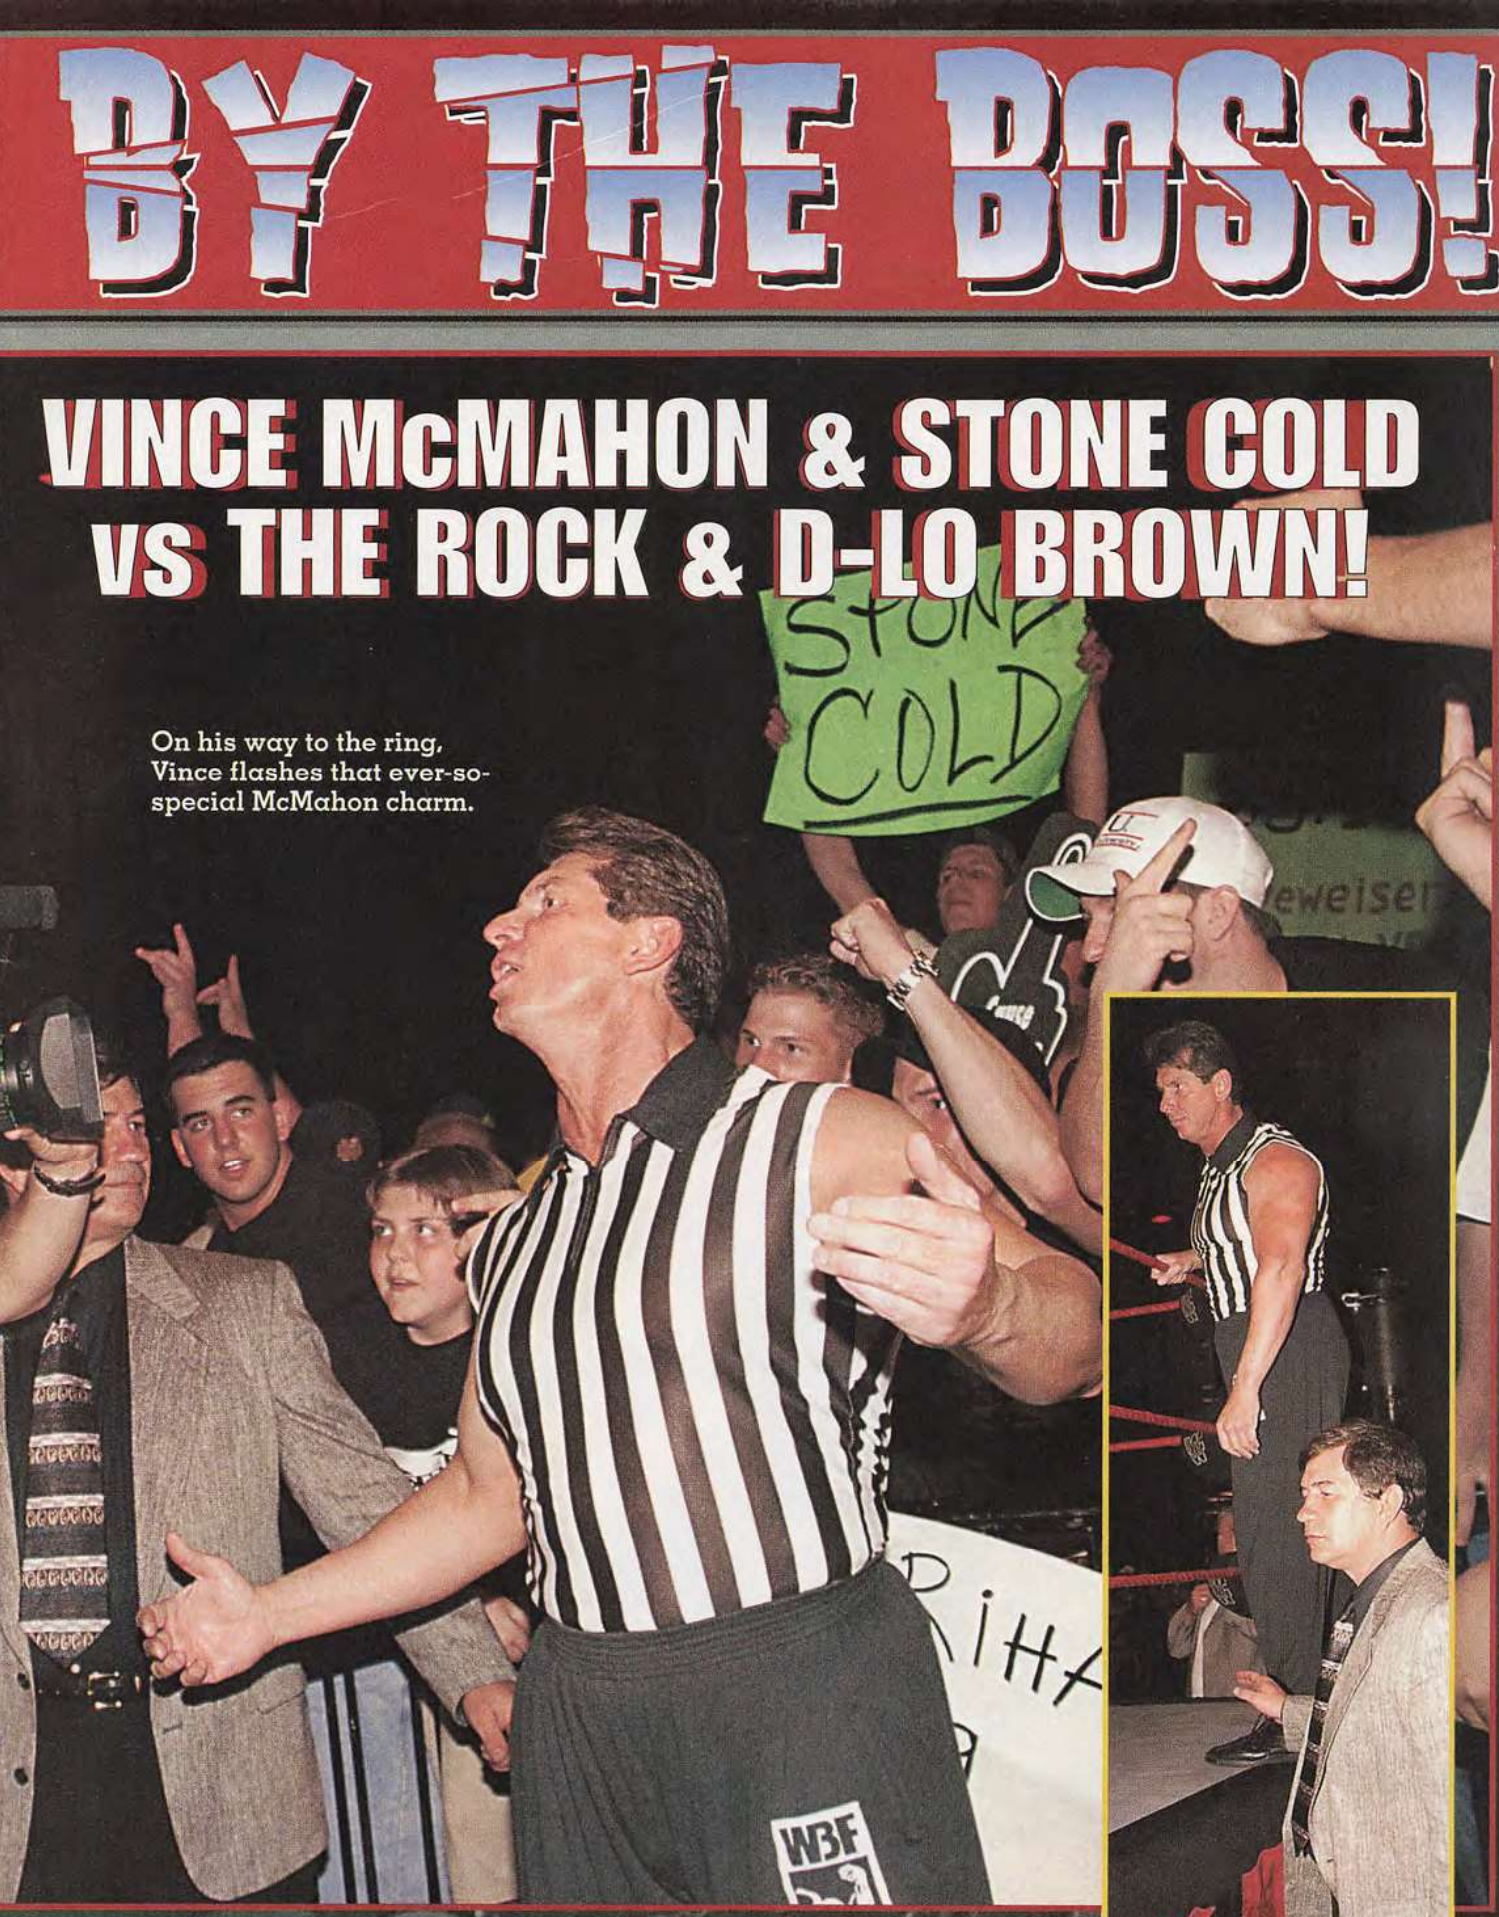


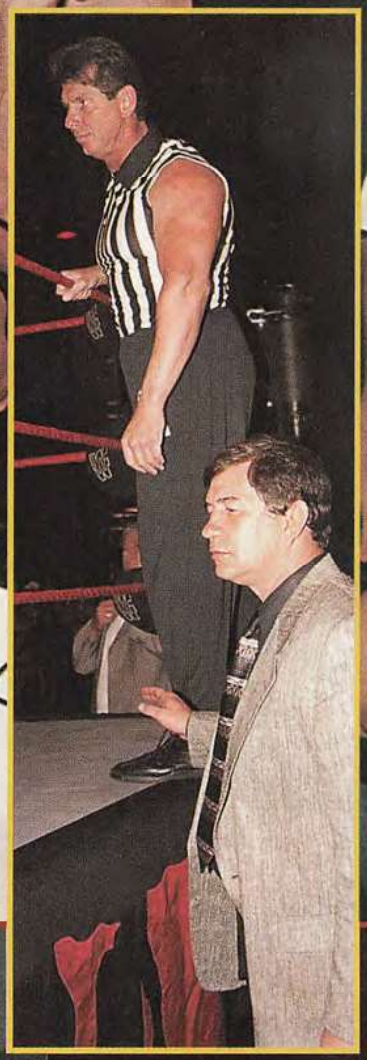
While Austin's opponents were the Rock and D-Lo Brown, his "partner" was Vince McMahon!

BY THE BOSS!

VINCE McMAHON & STONE COLD vs THE ROCK & D-LO BROWN!

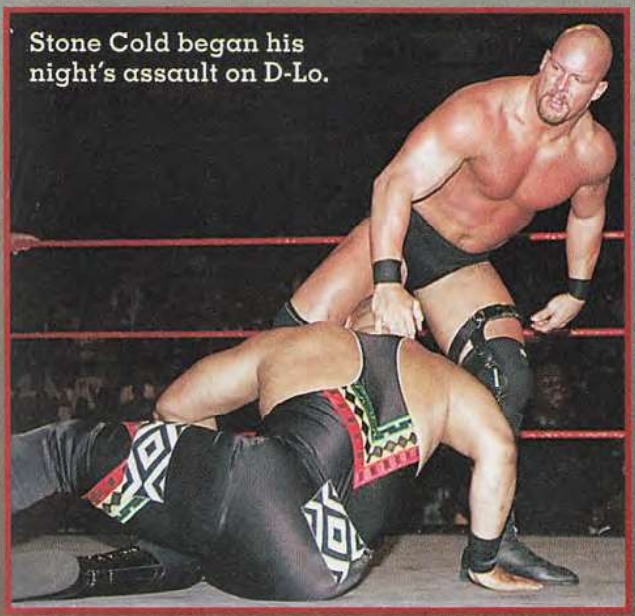
On his way to the ring, Vince flashes that ever-so-special McMahon charm.





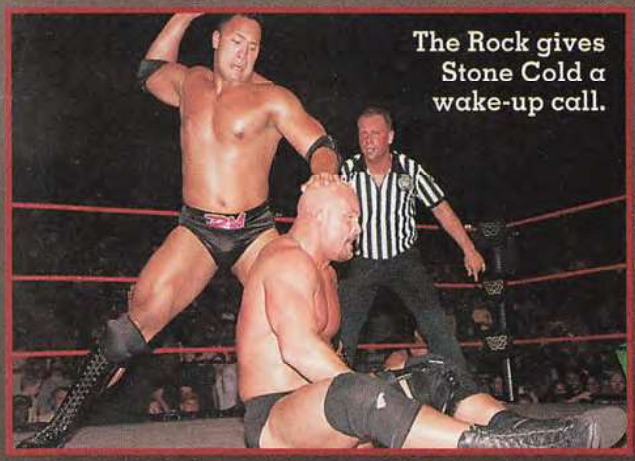
Vince takes to the ring apron while Jerry Brisco most likely practices saying, "Yes sir, Mr. McMahon" to himself.

DOUBLE CROSS

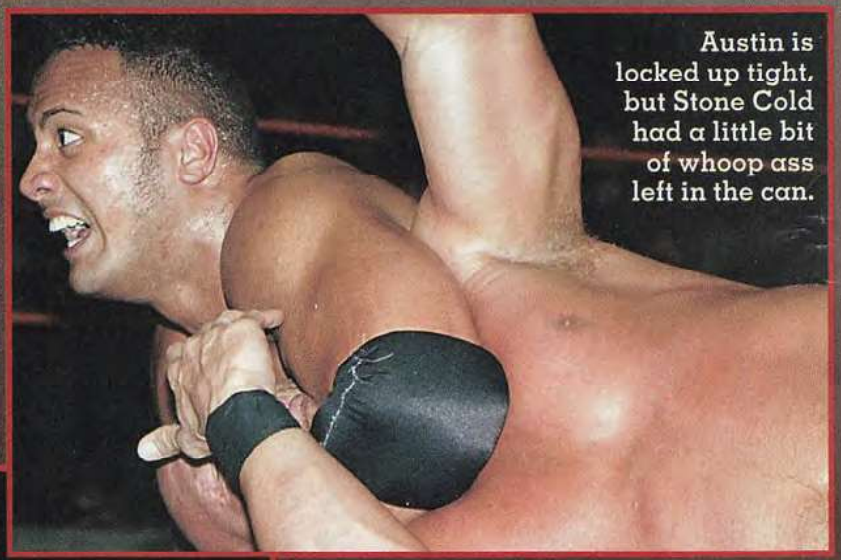


Stone Cold began his night's assault on D-Lo.

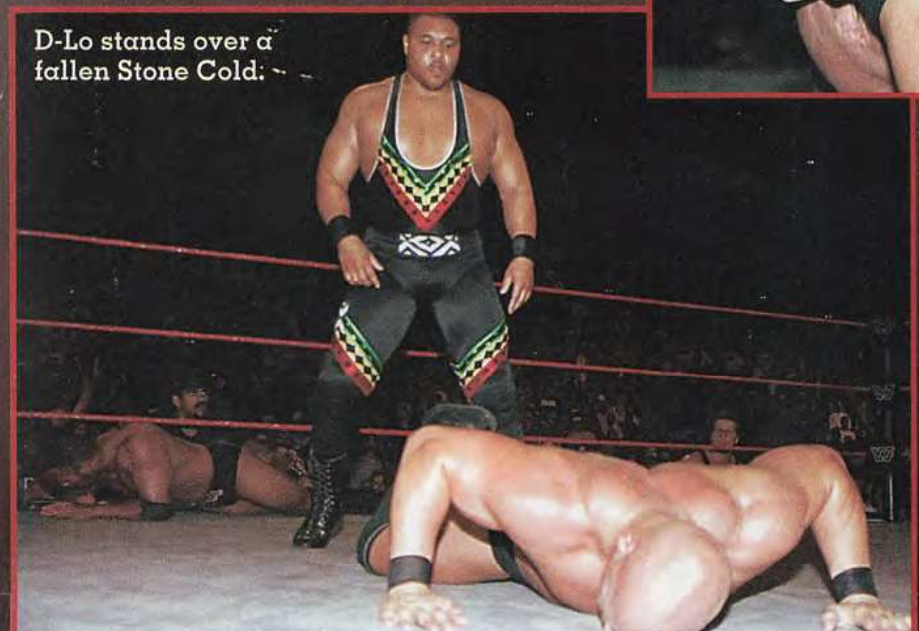
Patterson and Brisco feel the pain from Austin's body work on them.



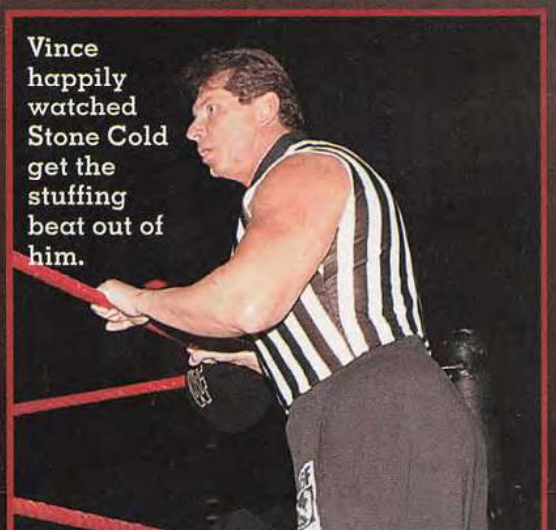
The Rock gives Stone Cold a wake-up call.



Austin is locked up tight, but Stone Cold had a little bit of whoop ass left in the can.

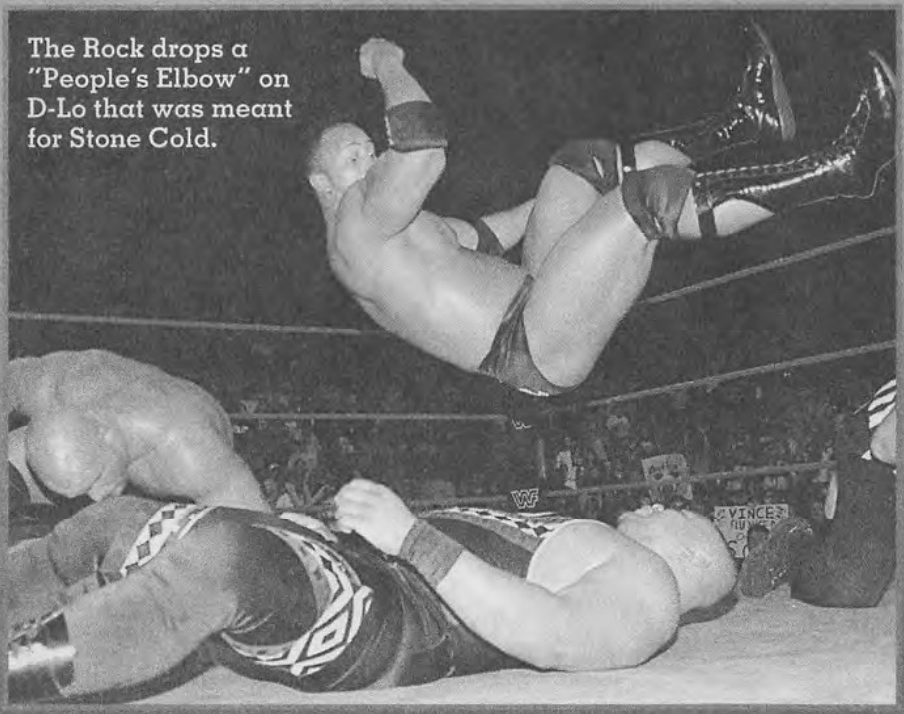


D-Lo stands over a fallen Stone Cold.



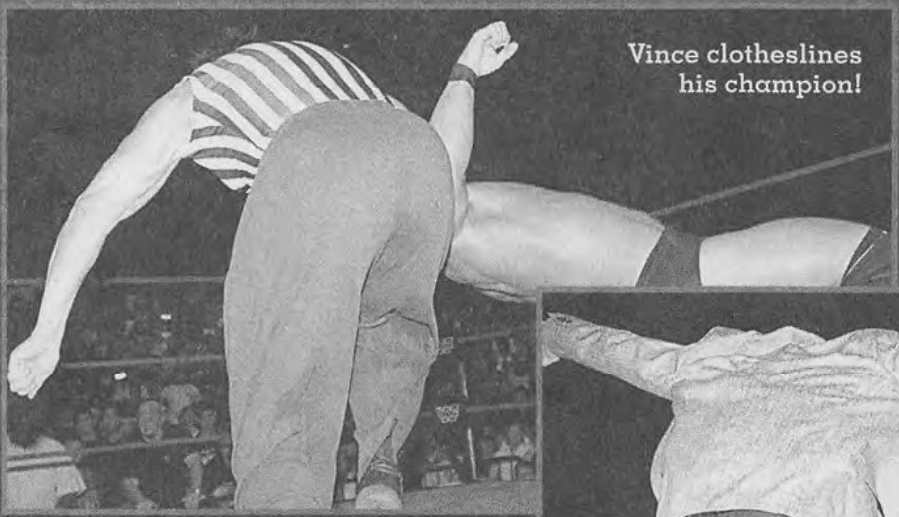
Vince happily watched Stone Cold get the stuffing beat out of him.

BY THE BOSS!

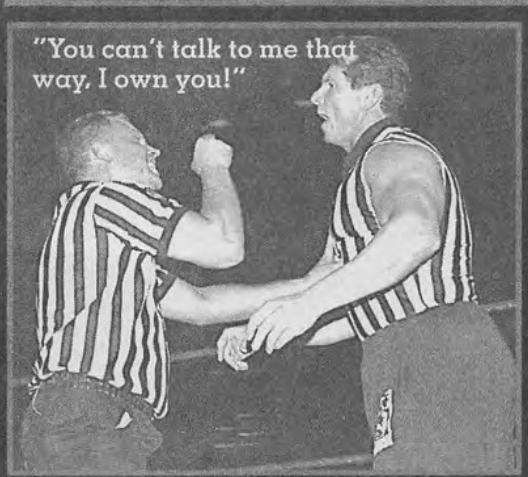


The Rock drops a "People's Elbow" on D-Lo that was meant for Stone Cold.

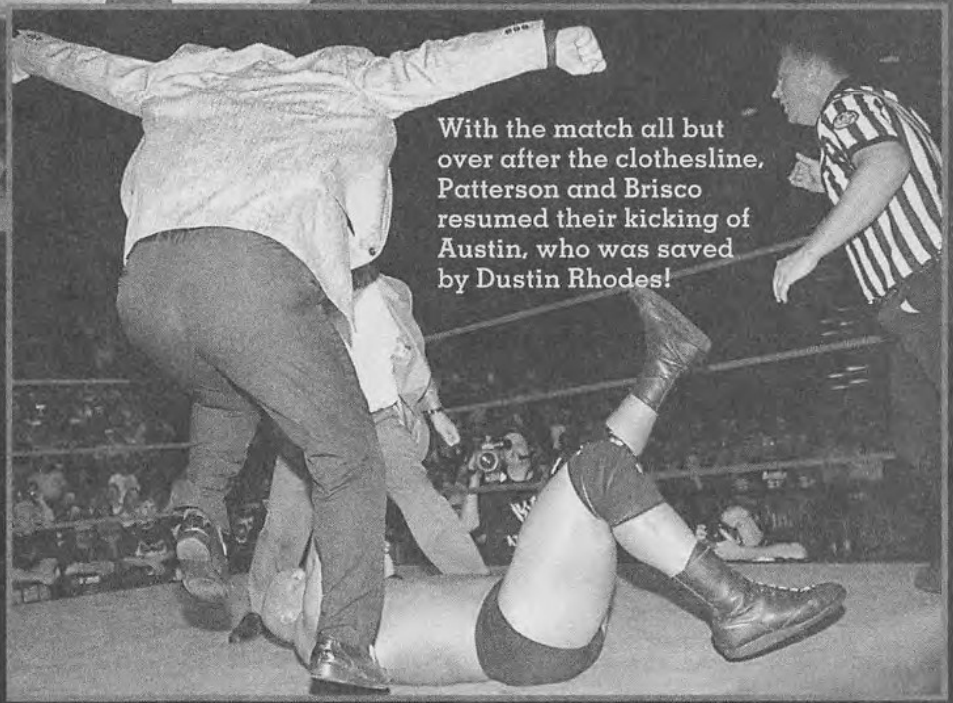
After practicing this move on Patterson and Brisco earlier, Stone Cold does the same to the Rock and Brown.



Vince clotheslines his champion!



"You can't talk to me that way, I own you!"



With the match all but over after the clothesline, Patterson and Brisco resumed their kicking of Austin, who was saved by Dustin Rhodes!

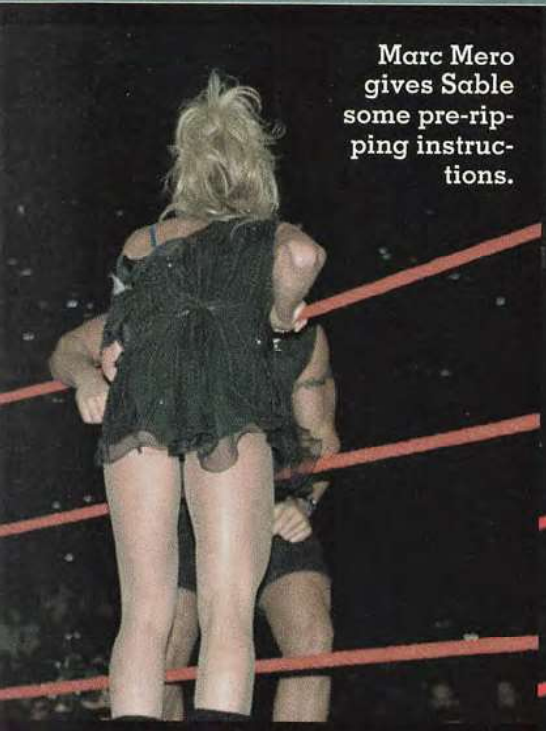
Evening gown match!

SABLE vs LUNA

Too clothes for comfort!

Sable and Luna's feud resulted in an "Evening Gown Match" at Unforgiven. On this night, Viagra sales took a nosedive.

Luna thought she'd have revenge if only she could strip Sable. Who says revenge isn't sweet?



Marc Mero gives Sable some pre-ripping instructions.

Before the cats claws came out, Sable kicks her "double." Thinking back, it looks like Sable kicked the Goldust out of Dustin!

This match had less wrestling moves than their Wrestlemania XIV tussle, but somehow the fans were no less interested.

Sable sets Luna up for a move rated NC-17.

Sable commits the sexiest "rope break" ever known to man.

Although she lost, a cheeky Sable disrobes Luna.

Sable dragged a licked Luna under the ring...
...and came up with Luna's undies and bra! Call the police!
Her match won, Sable leaves Luna (and Mero) behind.
Sable parades Luna's undergarments—which now reside in her trophy case.
The double trouble knockout soaks up the fans' support.

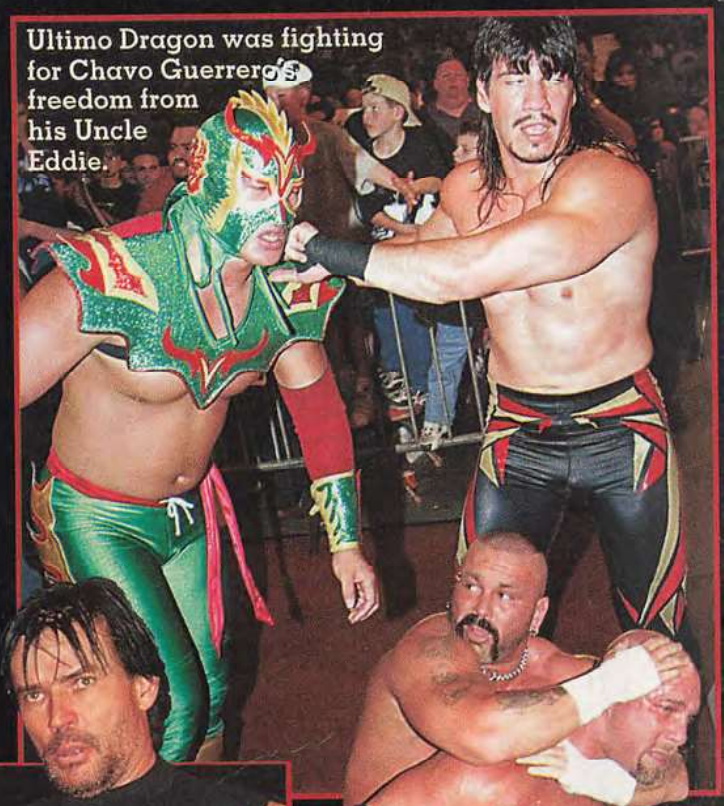
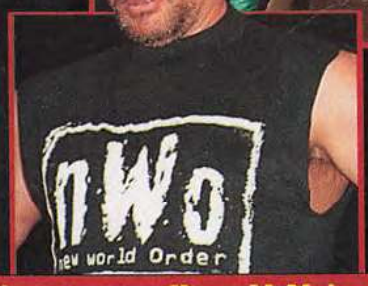
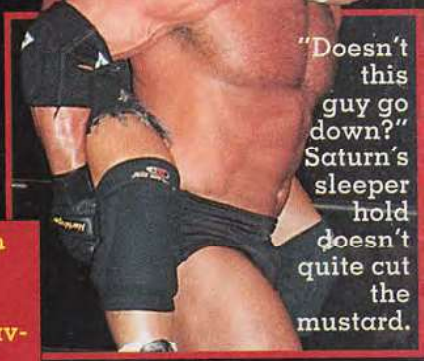
Bill Goldberg gives Saturn a Gorilla Press Slam.



Ultimo Dragon was fighting for Chavo Guerrero's freedom from his Uncle Eddie.

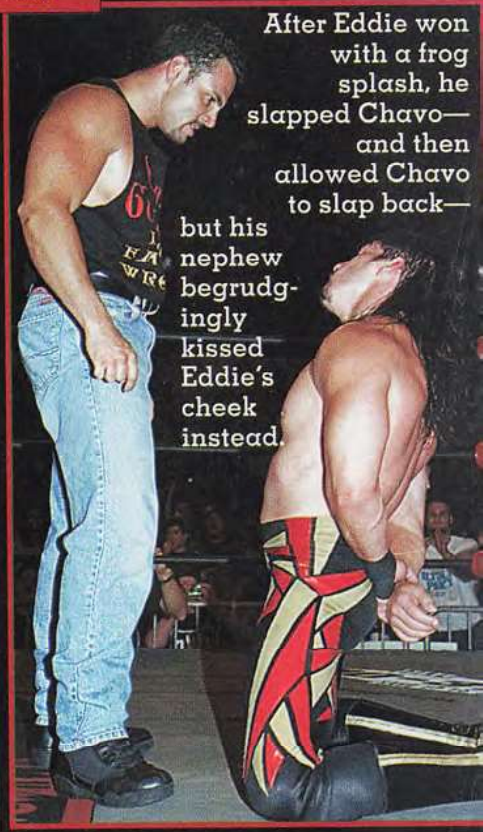


No big surprise: Vince McMahon didn't show up for his "match" against Eric Bischoff. Hey Eric, don't you know Vinnie Mac is saving his strength for Stone Cold?



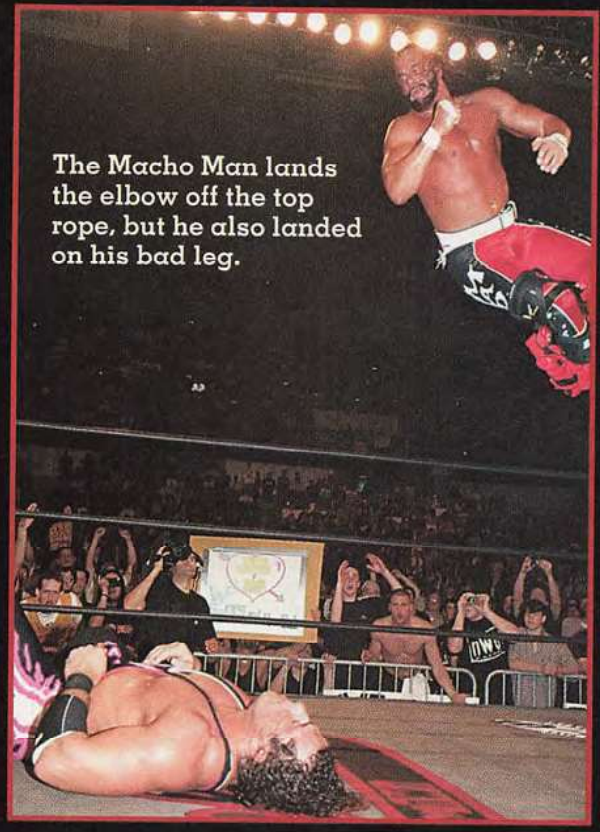
"Doesn't this guy go down?" Saturn's sleeper hold doesn't quite cut the mustard.

Goldberg's unbeaten streak continued after the corkscrew power slam.

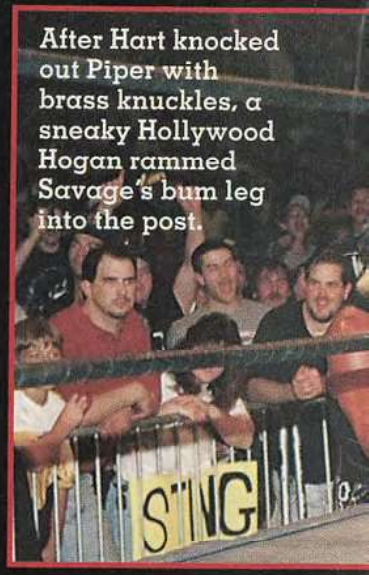


After Eddie won with a frog splash, he slapped Chavo—and then allowed Chavo to slap back—but his nephew begrudgingly kissed Eddie's cheek instead.

The Macho Man in one of his few offensive moments during his match with Bret Hart.

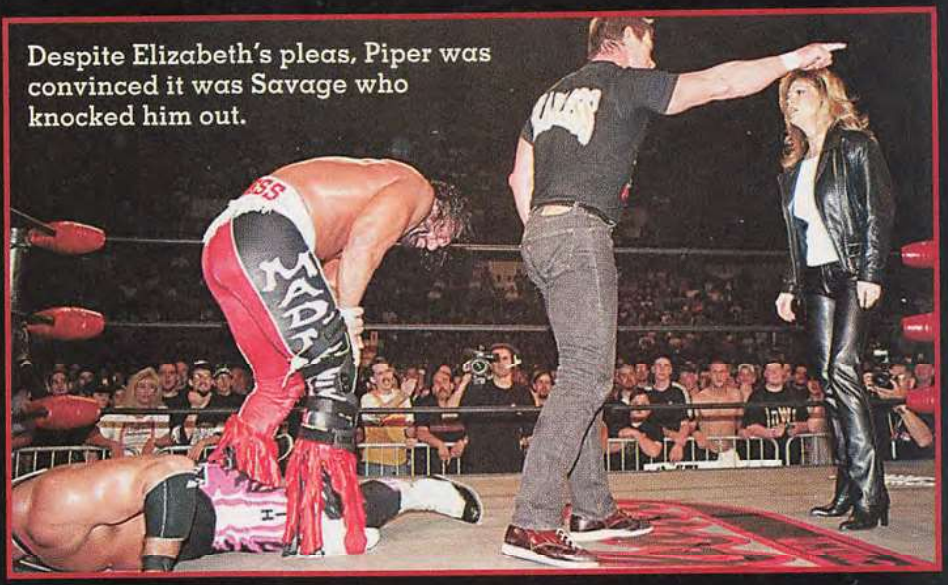


The Macho Man lands the elbow off the top rope, but he also landed on his bad leg.

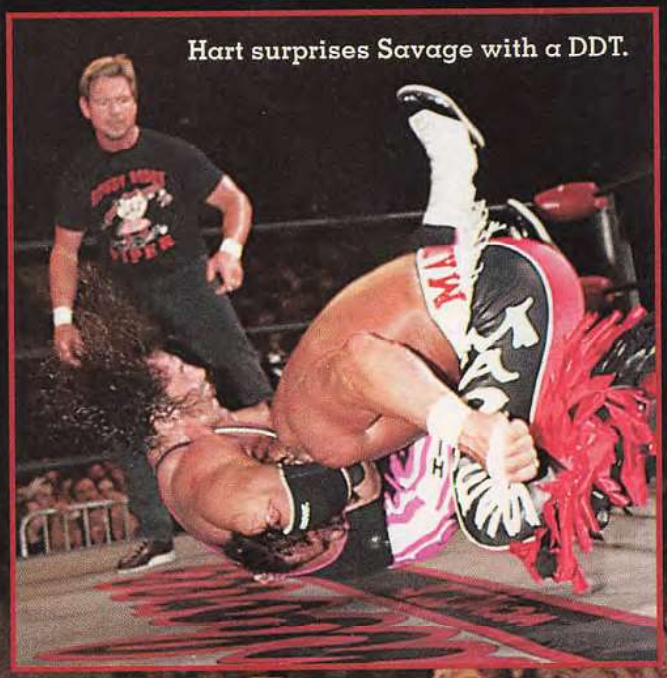


After Hart knocked out Piper with brass knuckles, a sneaky Hollywood Hogan rammed Savage's bum leg into the post.

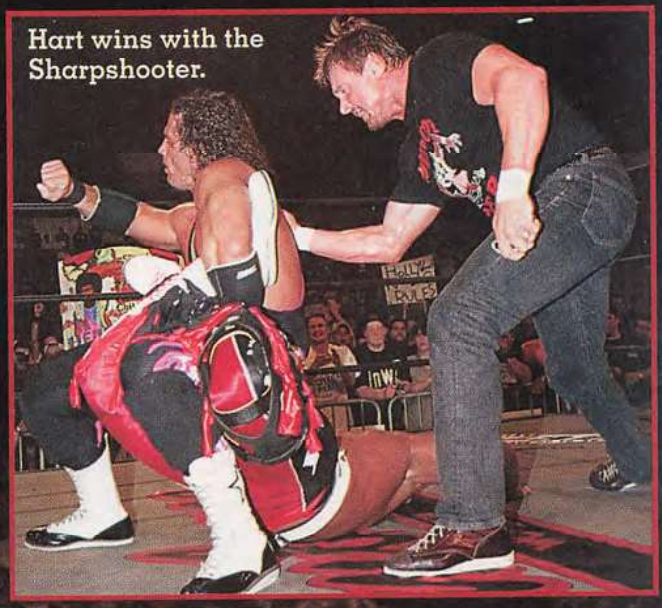
The two spent much of the match at arm's length from the fans.



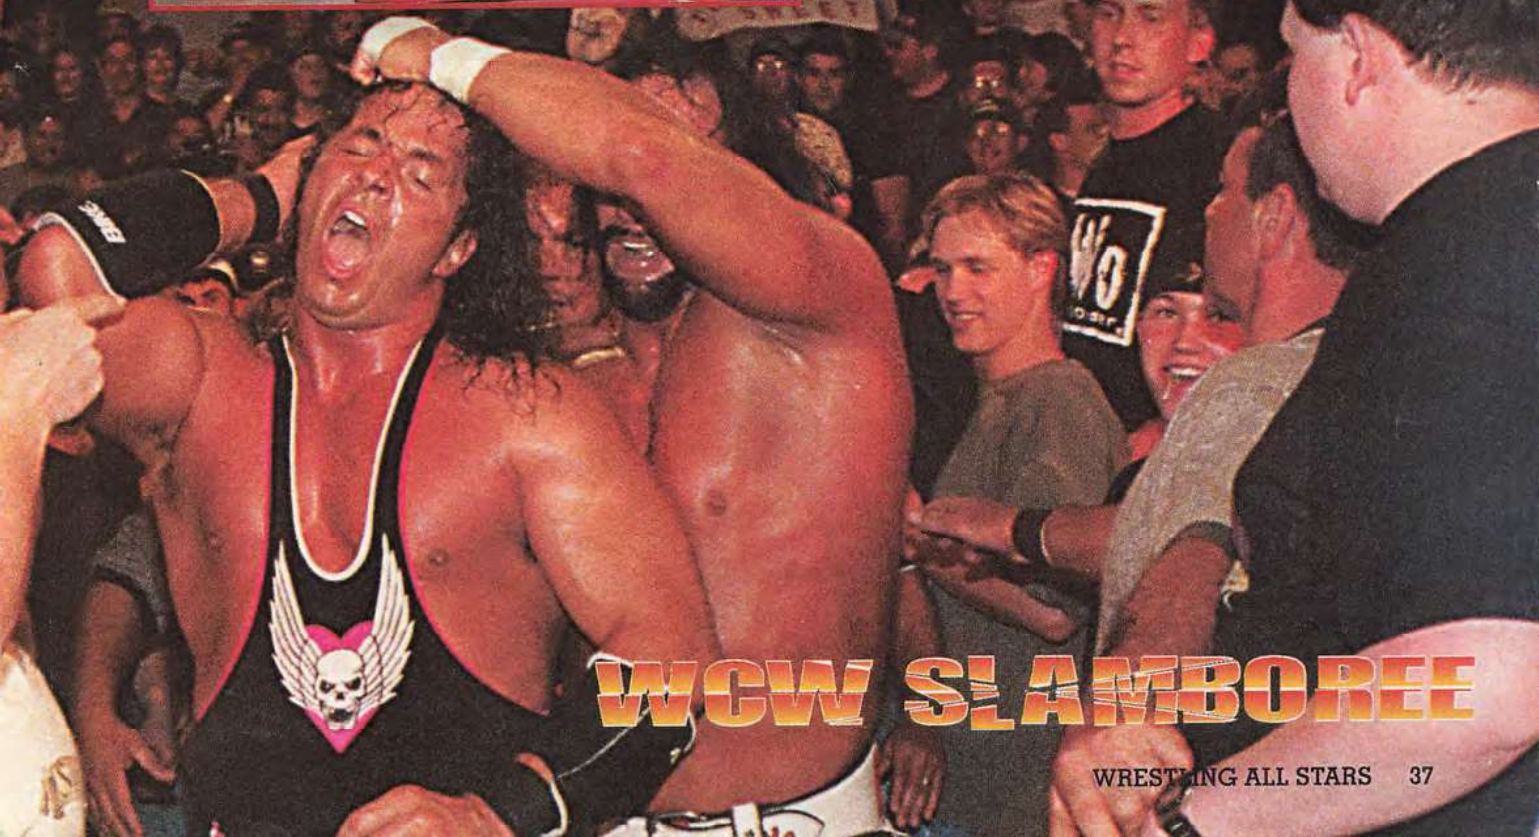
Despite Elizabeth's pleas, Piper was convinced it was Savage who knocked him out.



Hart surprises Savage with a DDT.



Hart wins with the Sharpshooter.



WCW SLAMBOREE

Stone Cold's Her Hero

Dear All Stars,

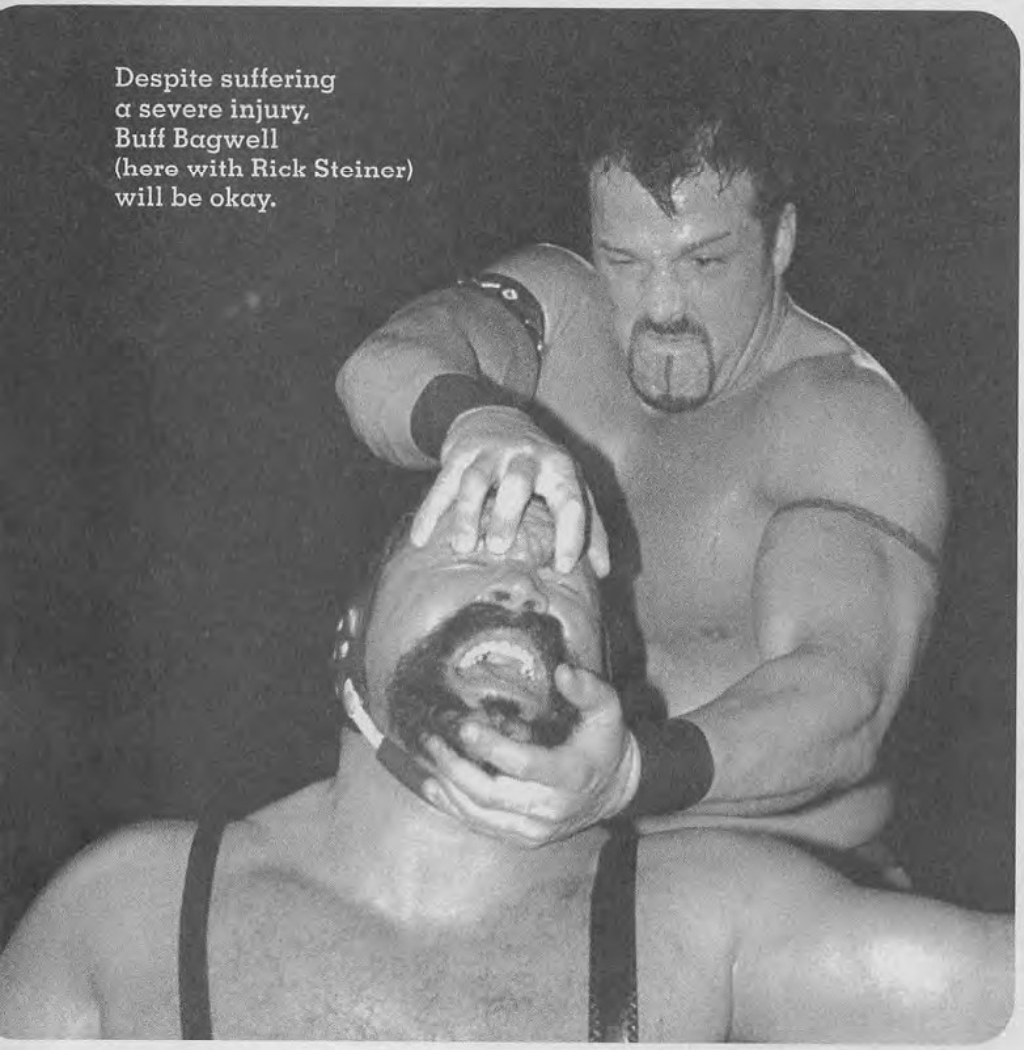
In the May '98 issue, Mallory Swinney said that she doesn't think Stone Cold Steve Austin should be called a hero. Maybe in reality we can't go around flipping everybody off but Steve Austin has a lot of great qualities that make him worthy to be called "hero." He's very focused and committed to what he's doing. He knows exactly what he wants and he goes after it and doesn't stop until he's achieved that goal. He is confident—he knows he's the best and he's not afraid to show it. There has never been nor will be anyone that will compare to Stone Cold Steve Austin. He's the best the WWF ever had. He's definitely a hero in my book.

Stacy Sanders
Princeton, IN



Despite suffering a severe injury, Buff Bagwell (here with Rick Steiner) will be okay.

On The Mark Comments

Dear All Stars,

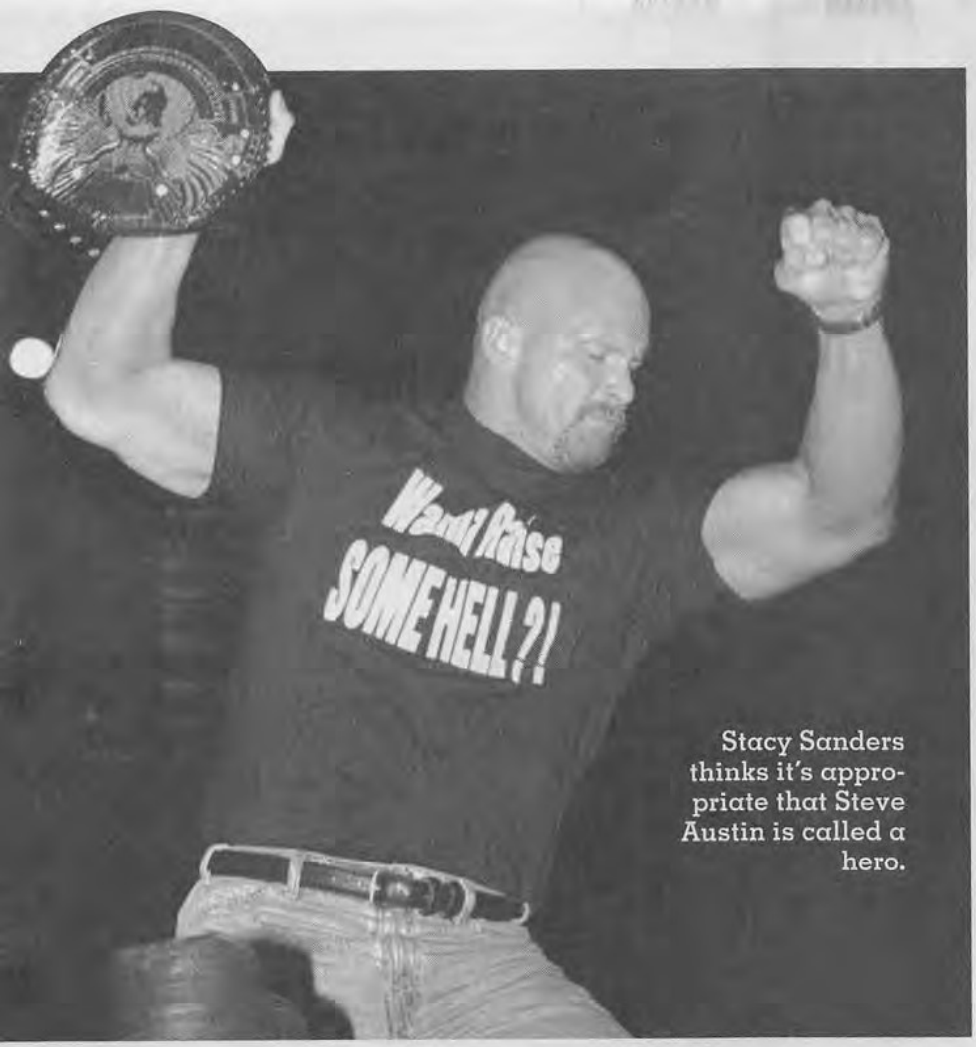
To start with, I was appalled while watching Monday Night Raw on May 4, 1998. I know Vince McMahon is trying to take the championship belt away from Stone Cold Steve Austin, but he'd better think twice because Austin is a big crowd pleaser. I hope Steve keeps the belt as long as possible and torments Vince as much as he can.

And another thing—that was a terrible thing Vince did, putting friend against friend when he put Terry Funk against Cactus Jack to beat the bloody hell out of each other.



Stacy Sanders thinks it's appropriate that Steve Austin is called a hero.

Has Owen gone off the deep end joining with Rocky Maivia? Owen is a trader—just like his brother Bret when he acted like he was joining WCW and then helped Hogan.

In closing, in regards to HHH and Degeneration-X: Vince better start cleaning up the WWF and not worry about how he's going to get rid of Steve Austin. When D-X do those dirty gestures I almost vomit. Enough is enough!

Buff Update

Dear All Stars,

I saw Buff Bagwell get injured on WCW Thunder. Is he okay?

Sherry Dawson

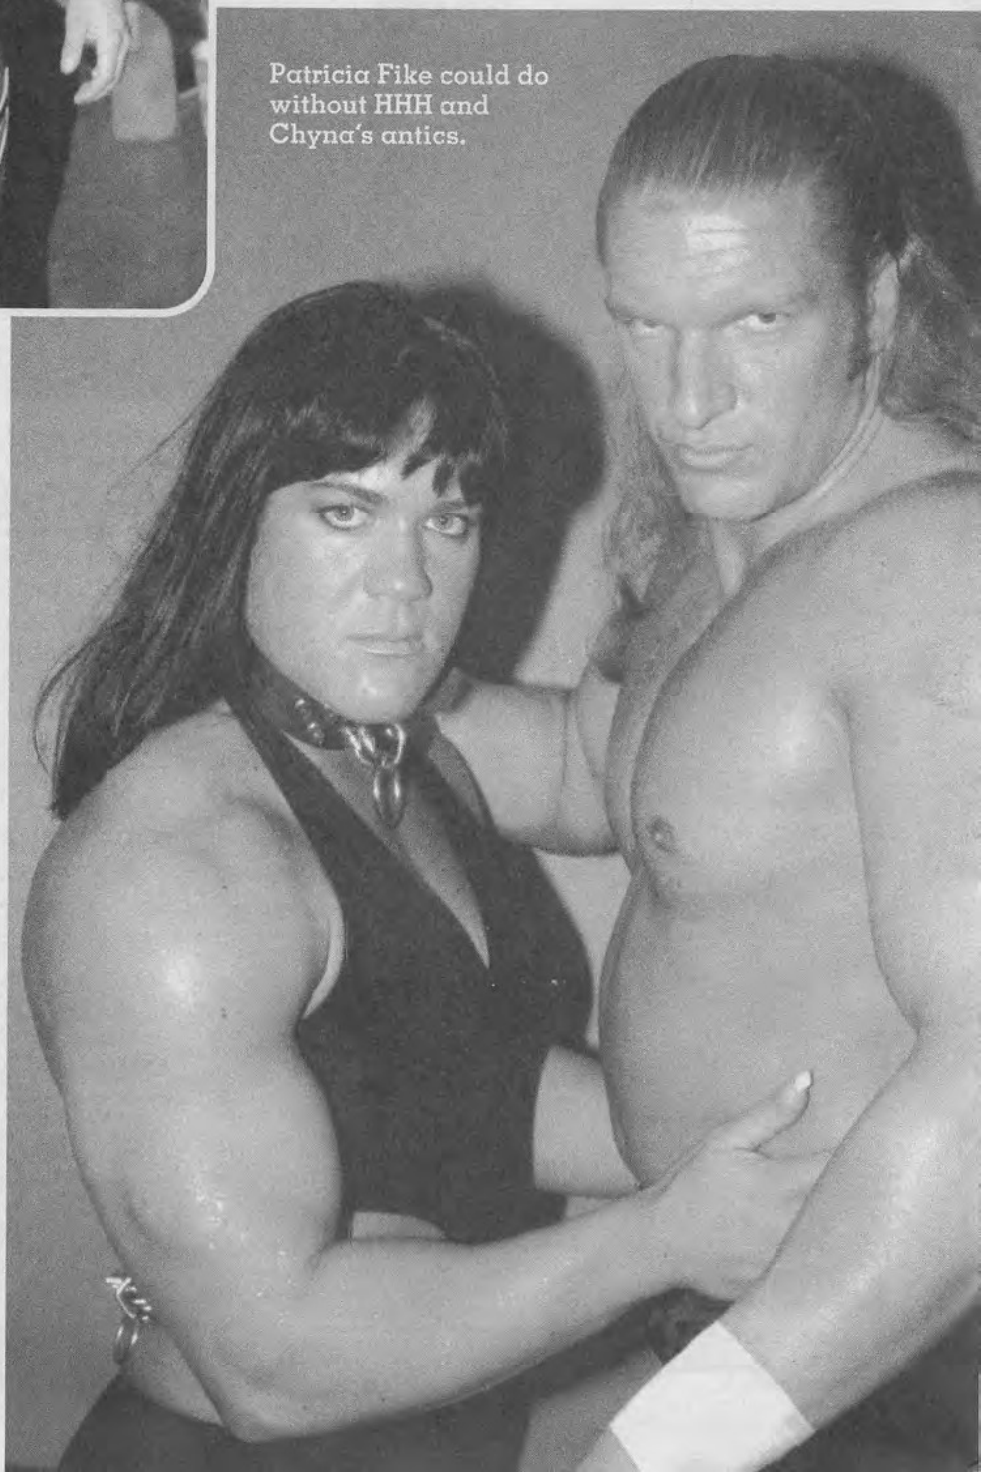
Sherry, Buff suffered several fractured vertebrae. Fortunately, he was in such good physical condition (He is named Buff after all!) that his surgery was successful. He is physically fine, but will he wrestle again? We'll have to wait and see.



Patricia Fike could do without HHH and Chyna's antics.

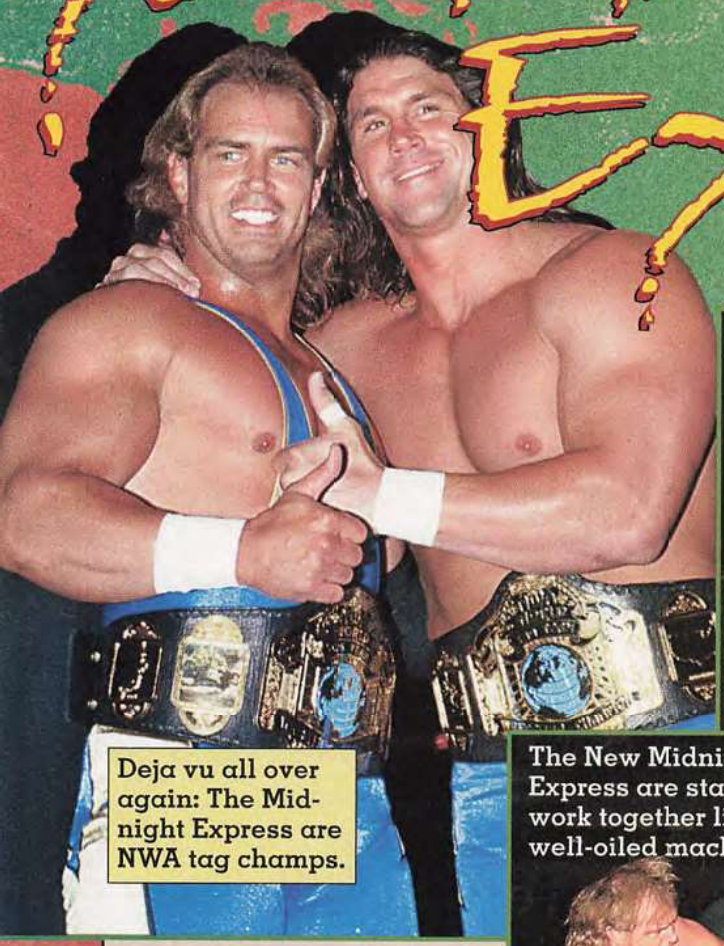
INTRODUCING

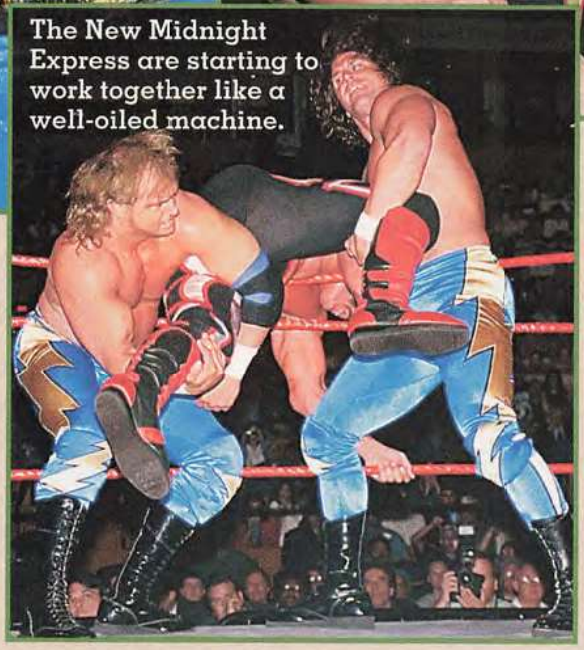
The New Midnight Express

By DONNY LAIBLE



Deja vu all over again: The Midnight Express are NWA tag champs.

"Cornette has the ability to bring out the best talent a team has," Bart said of their manager.



The New Midnight Express are starting to work together like a well-oiled machine.

All is well for Bob Holly and Bart Gunn in the World Wrestling Federation. In being Jim Cornette's newest version of the Midnight Express, success and prosperity are a lock.

As the third installment to one of the sport's most storied twosomes, just how do the current NWA tag champs compare and differ from their predecessors?

First of all, wrestling fans need to cut some slack to Holly and Gunn when comparing them to the previous Cornette-led Express teams of "Beautiful" Bobby Eaton and "Lover Boy" Dennis Condrey and later "Sweet" Stan Lane who replaced Condrey in 1987.

However, comparisons are unavoidable, and high expectations from fans, whether or not this is fair to Holly and Gunn, is a natural process. The rules are simple: as long as The New Midnight Express win, and they claim the NWA tag belts, Cornette's "experiment" will be seen as successful.

But anything less than constant victories will be criticized. But that's what Cornette, 37, has made a career out of—taking chances.

"You knew Jimmy was up to something," Bart Gunn said. "He had been laying low as a manager. But reforming a tag team was his priority. The whole Midnight Express legacy is what he's most proud of, and I'm damn proud to have been given the opportunity to be added to its family tree."

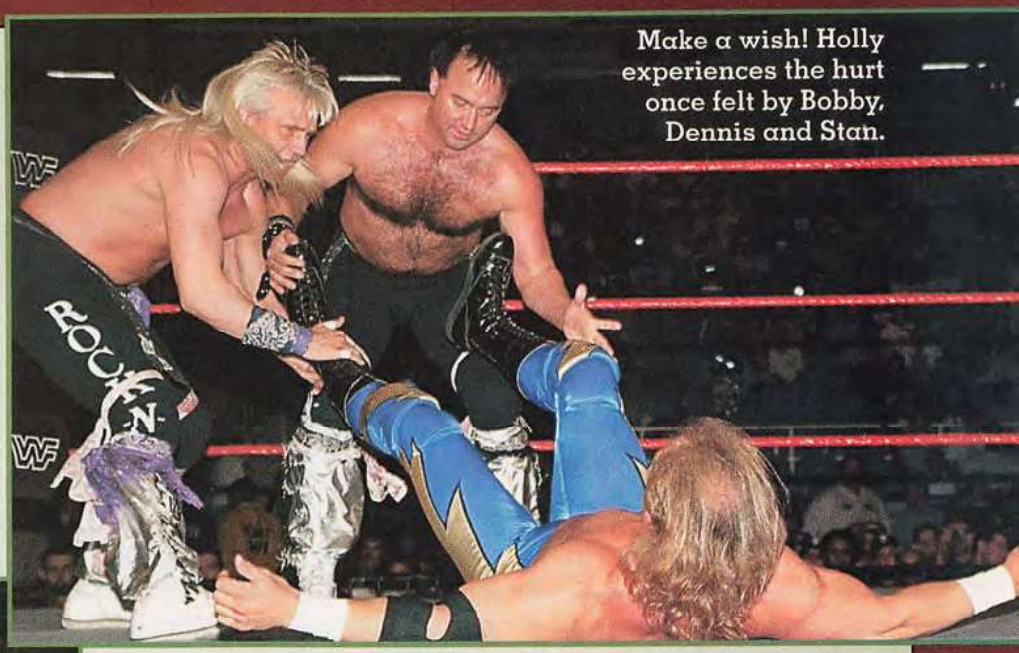
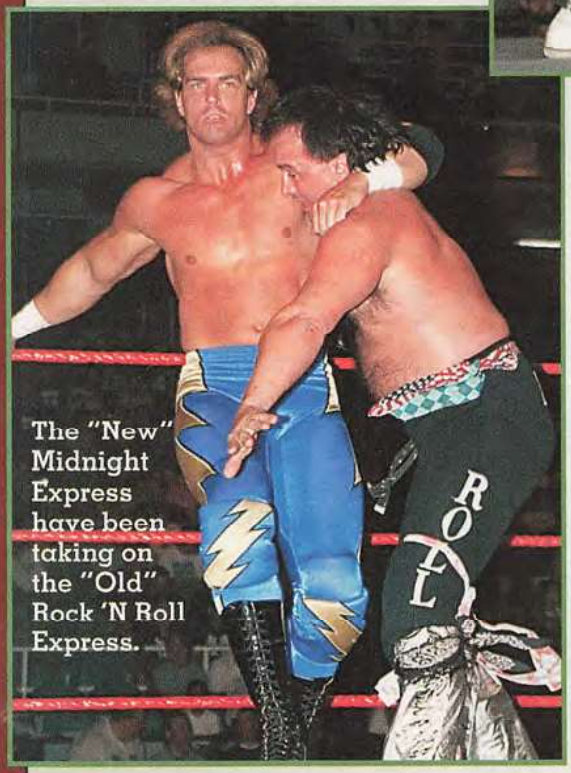
The previous Express teams were tough acts to follow, but Cornette has a track record where championships are concerned.

"Sure, it's fair to say Bart and I are in a pressure cooker, of sorts," Holly says. "But we have complete faith in Jimmy. Bobby, Stan and Dennis allowed him to steer their wrestling business and look at all the gold they had strapped around their waists."



Make a wish! Holly experiences the hurt once felt by Bobby, Dennis and Stan.



The "New" Midnight Express have been taking on the "Old" Rock 'N Roll Express.

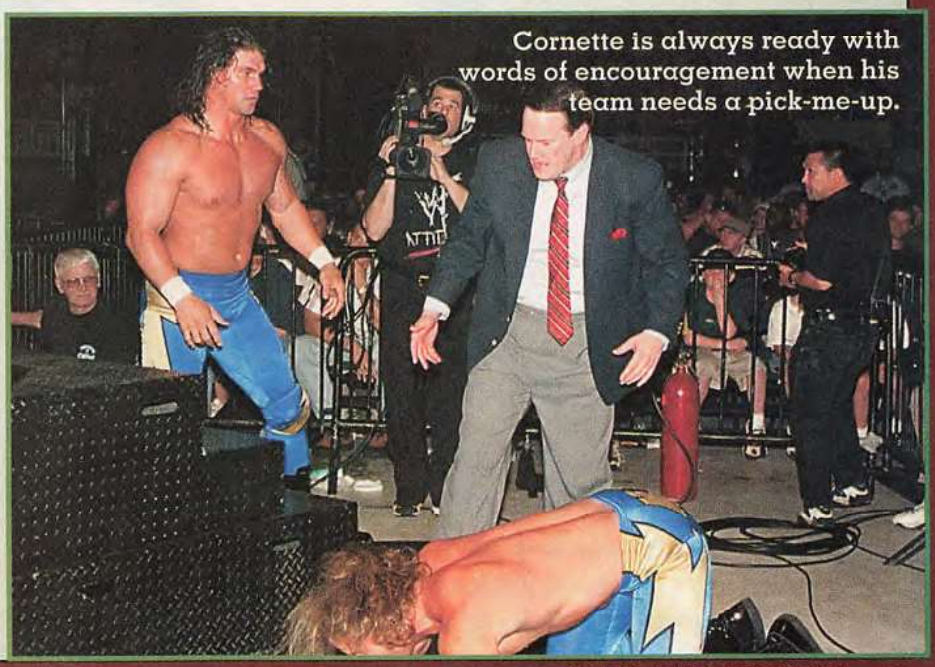
In the 1980s, Cornette's Midnight Express were among the most dominant tag teams in North America. The makeup of the team began when Jim started managing in 1982 in Memphis, Tennessee and he befriended a quiet—however technically gifted wrestler—named Bobby Eaton.

By design, as is the case with Holly and Gunn, Cornette selected Bobby with a ring partner, Dennis Condrey, who mirrored Eaton's ring approach. Condrey wasn't flashy, but he could match up hold-for-hold with the best talent in wrestling.

The Express meshed incredibly well and soared to great heights. The United States tag belts, Mid-South Wrestling titles and the NWA world tag titles were corralled by Cornette's boys. Condrey and Eaton dominated against an impressive division of teams including the Freebirds (which featured the WWF's Dok Hendrix—then called Michael Hayes), the Fantastics, Arn Anderson and Tully Blanchard, the Road Warriors and the Rock 'N Roll Express.

But with no warning, "Lover Boy" Dennis abandoned the team in 1987 and "Sweet" Stan lane was welcomed aboard following a glowing recommendation from Ric Flair. Without skipping a beat, the Midnight Express' winnings rolled on.

Cornette still keeps in touch with his former Express. Condrey resides in the Denver, Colorado region. Stan Lane, no longer associated with wrestling, lives in Charlotte, North Carolina and today supplies expert TV commentary in boat and racing events, some of which can be seen on ESPN2. Both men are appreciative for the association with the Express, and single out their former manager for the team's success.



Cornette is always ready with words of encouragement when his team needs a pick-me-up.

With the New Midnight Express, Cornette continues his managerial genius as well as swinging his loaded tennis racket at whomever tries to get the better of his team.

"Bob and I have tremendous respect for Jimmy and his understanding on what makes a great tag team click," Bart said. "Believe me, he has the ability to bring out the best talent of a wrestler."

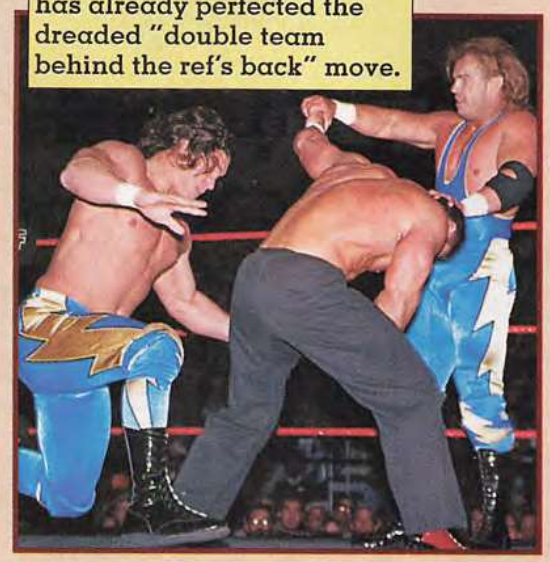
Before agreeing to reform the Express in the WWF, Holly and Gunn's careers appeared to be on life support at best. Bob Holly hadn't been seen on TV or in arenas—unless he was a last-minute substitute—for more than a year.

When Holly first entered the WWF as Sparky Plug, tabbed a part-time wrestler and part-time auto racer, snickers of disrespect surrounded his every appearance. It wasn't the package the fans scoffed at, but the wrapping supplied by Federation officials that didn't allow Holly to be taken seriously as a wrestler.

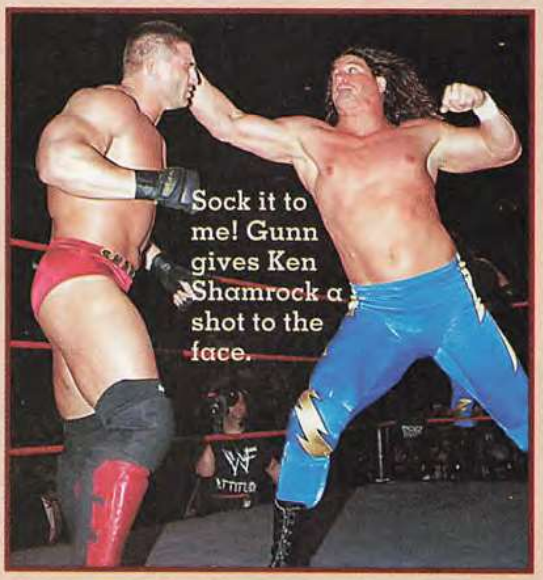
In 1995, along with the 1-2-3 Kid (now called X-Pac), Holly won the WWF tag titles—for one day. That was it for Bob as "Spark Plug," a brief and for the most part unfulfilling tenure until being recruited into the Express. Holly caught Cornette's eye in 1992, when they were both signed with the now-defunct Smoky Mountain Wrestling promotion.

Bart Gunn has had more ups than downs in the WWF than his new partner. On three occasions, along with his brother (and now New Age Outlaw and D-X member) Billy Gunn, the brothers have co-held the WWF tag belts as the Smoking Gunns.

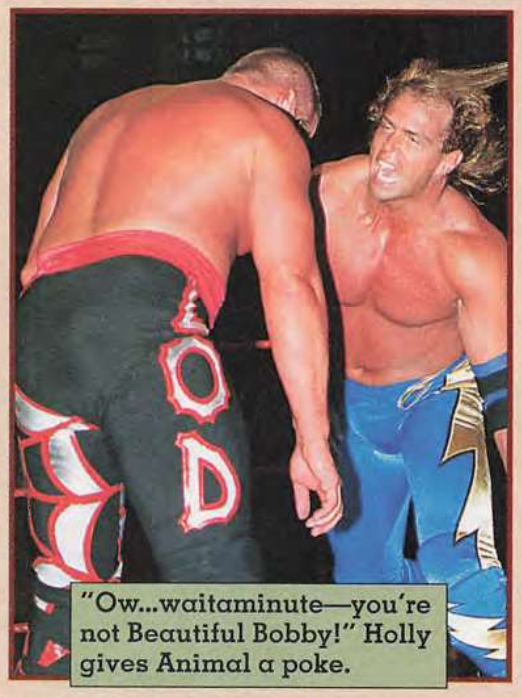
Ironically, on January 23, 1995, the Smoking Gunns took the titles from Holly and the 1-2-3 Kid. But reigning during a bleak WWF tag time, their toughest competition being the Godwinns and the Bodydonnas, the Gunns weren't regarded as a dominating tag team force.



The New Midnight Express has already perfected the dreaded "double team behind the ref's back" move.



Sock it to me! Gunn gives Ken Shamrock a shot to the face.



"Ow...waitaminute—you're not Beautiful Bobby!" Holly gives Animal a poke.

And, in part to not having an experienced manager, the Gunns had difficulty in defending their titles and soon after broke up.

Billy Gunn was and is an outgoing, cocky and arrogant professional. Bart, as were Eaton and Condrey, is the silent partner to Holly. Of course, in Cornette's presence, almost everyone is silent against Cornette's motor mouth. After dropping the NWA squad of Barry Windham, Dan Severn and now arch-enemies The Rock 'N Roll Express from his duties, Cornette has focused all his energies towards the New Midnight Express.

Quietly, the New Midnight Express is silencing doubters who originally saw them as imitators and mid-car performers, certainly not tag champions. Bart is the finisher of the duo, jumping off the top rope with a leg drop on his fallen opponent with the same grace and result as "Beautiful" Bobby. Holly, just like Lane and Condrey, is the set-up man for the team.

Working over various body parts, combined with frequent tags, Holly and Gunn have their moves in sync and their opponents in trouble.

"We respect Bobby, Dennis and Stan for what they did for wrestling in general, but Bart and I want to be our own unique professionals," Holly said.

With the NWA tag titles in their possession, taking a swat at the WWF titles is the only natural progression for Holly and Gunn—because Jim Cornette says so! All three mean business. Success and the Midnight Express are bound to happen again with Jim Cornette at the controls.

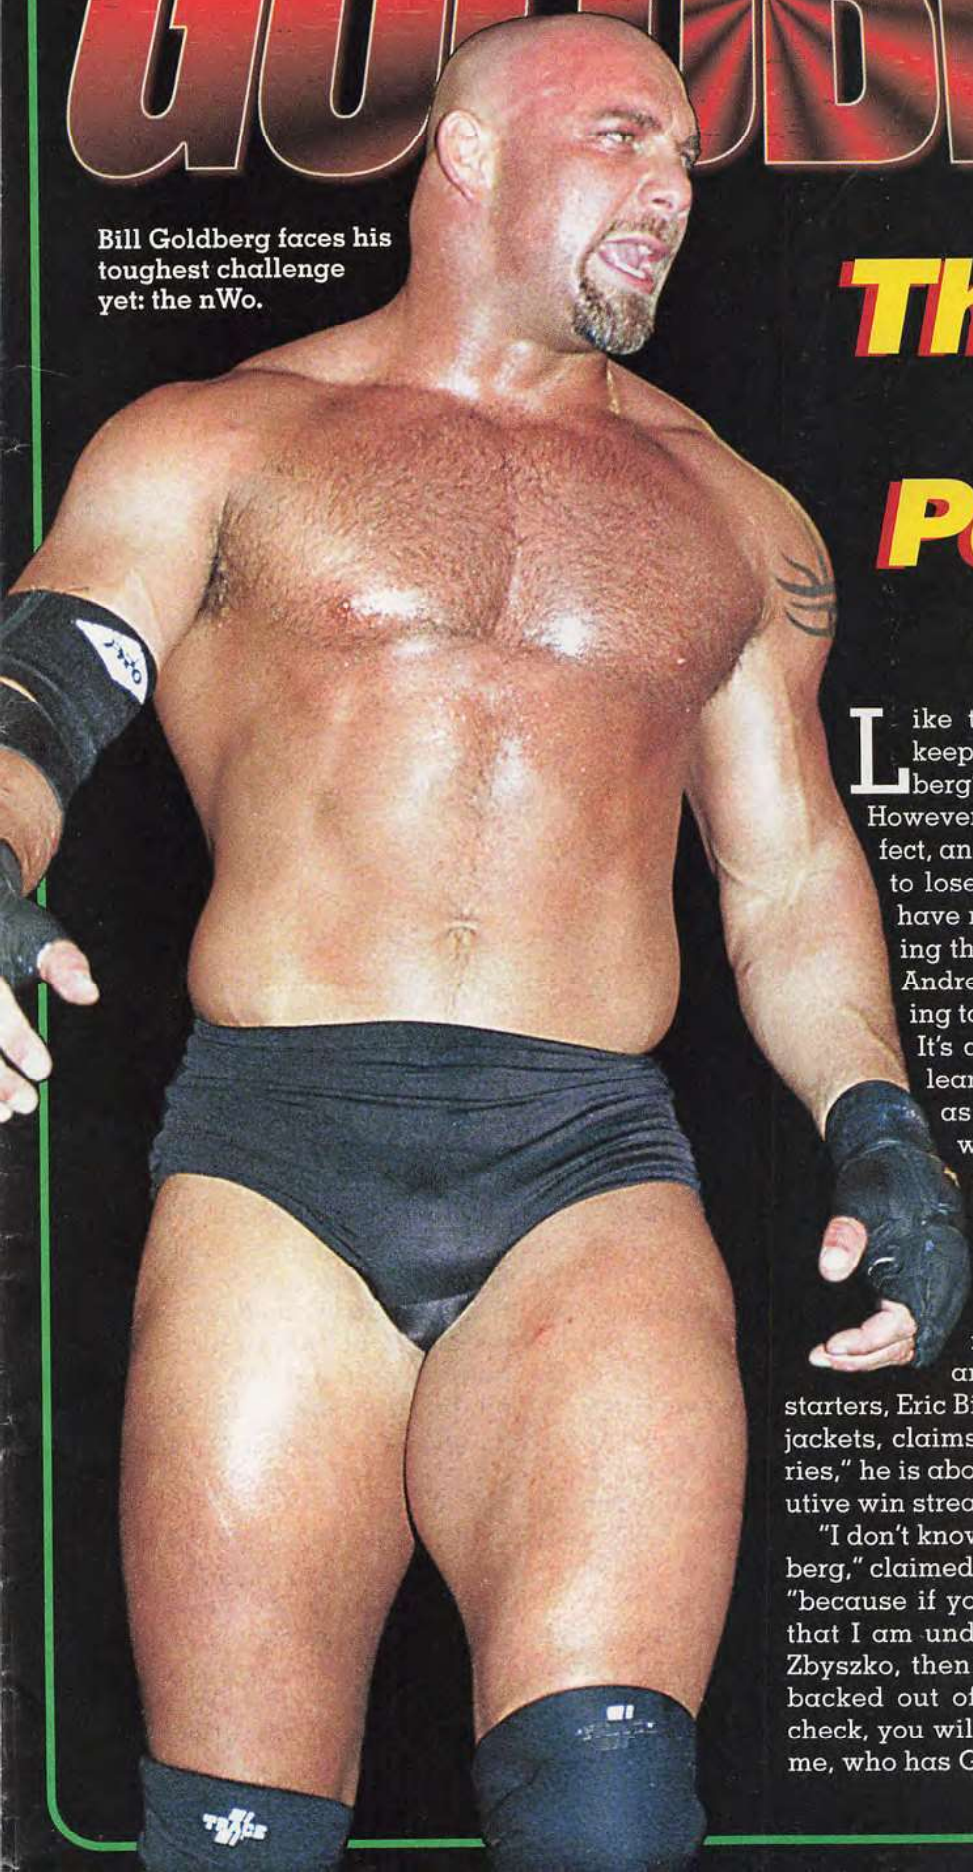
GOLDBERG



Bill Goldberg faces his toughest challenge yet: the nWo.

The Real "Mr. Perfect"

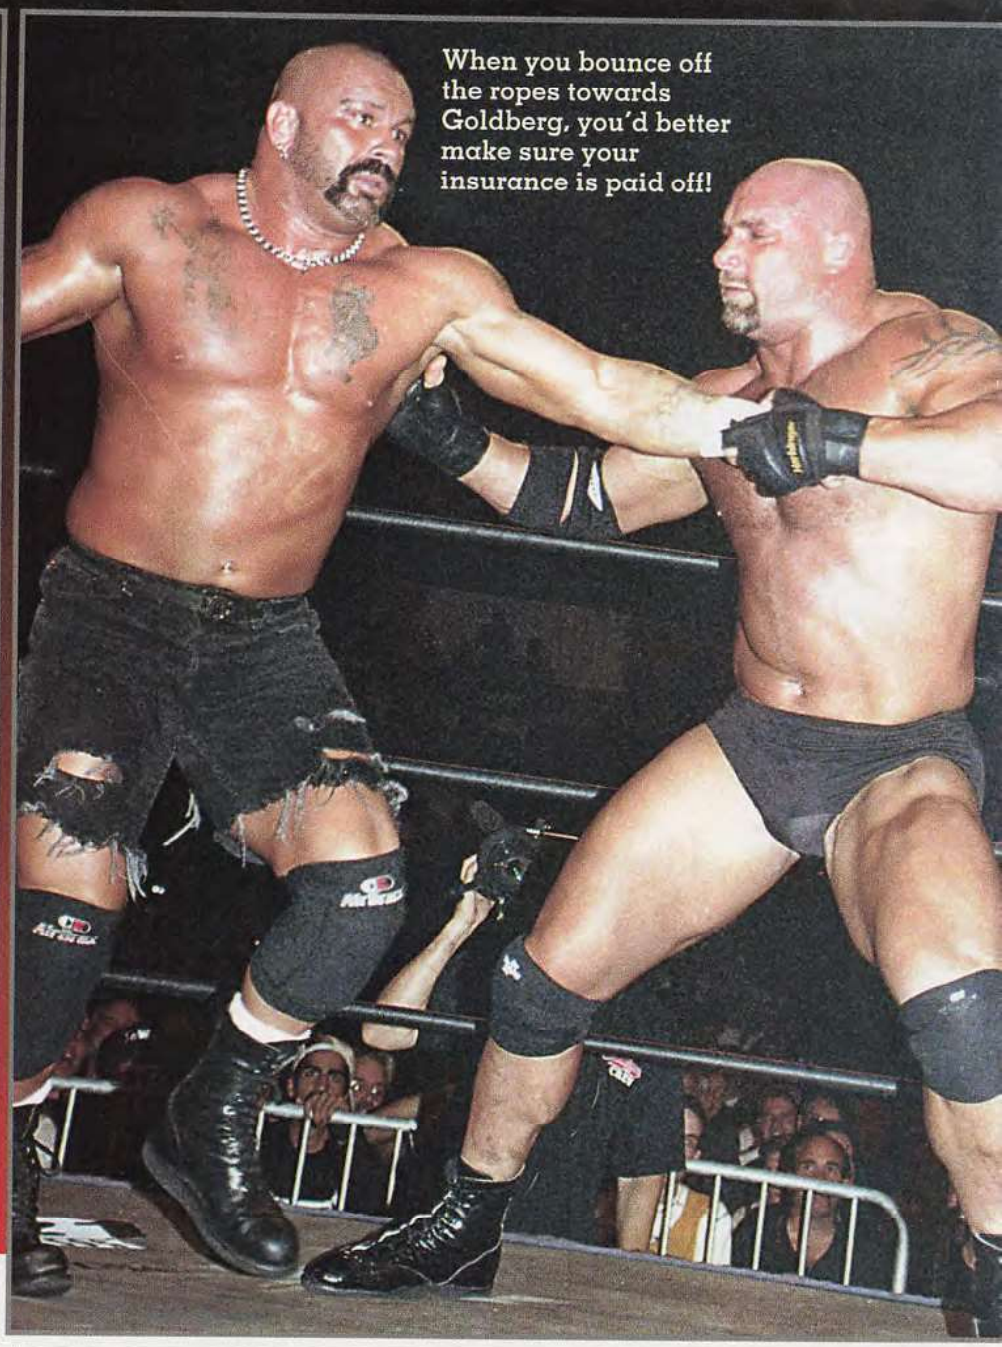
By GEORGE NAPOLITANO

Like the Energizer Bunny, Goldberg just keeps going and going. At last count, Goldberg's record was an incredible 90 and 0. However, no one can go through life being perfect, and sooner than later Goldberg is bound to lose. It's inevitable. Even the great ones have met defeat at one time or another during their careers. (See Hulk Hogan losing to Andre or the Ultimate Warrior, Ric Flair losing to Ronnie "Hands of Stone" Garvin, etc.) It's a part of life, but Goldberg has yet to learn that part of the business. However, as his wins mount, more and more wrestlers have begun to resent the one-man wrecking crew.

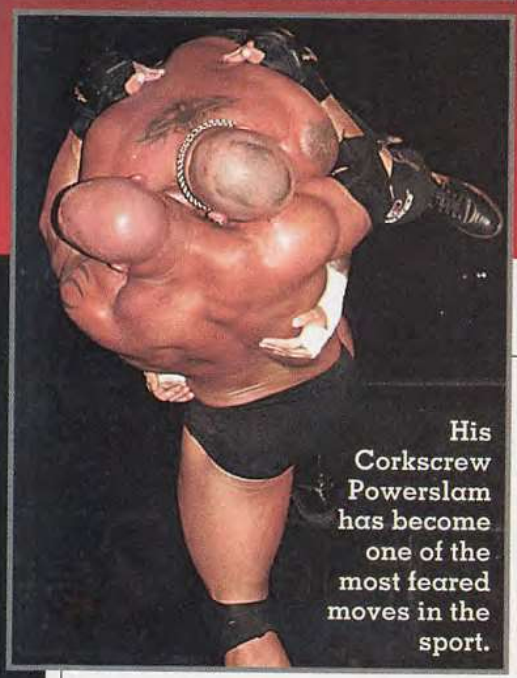
After finishing off Raven's Flock, it seems that Goldberg is about to face the toughest challenge of his young career. The nWo has begun to recognize the exploits of the U.S. champion, and they don't like what they see. For starters, Eric Bischoff, the nWo's top wearer of leather jackets, claims that with his two consecutive "victories," he is about to make a run at Goldberg's consecutive win streak.

"I don't know why there is so much fuss over Goldberg," claimed the Chief Executive Officer of the nWo, "because if you check the record book you will see that I am undefeated too! First I humiliated Larry Zbyszko, then I defeated Vince McMahon when he backed out of our match. And, if you continue to check, you will not find a blemish on my record. Tell me, who has Goldberg defeated? He may have a few more wins than me, but that's because he's afraid to face me in the ring. If his record ever gets to 99-0, let him look in my direction because I will put an end to that record of his. Then I will hold the undisputed consecutive victory streak!" Bischoff may believe what he says, but he is no match for the mighty Goldberg.

What does this man have in store for the mighty Goldberg?



When you bounce off the ropes towards Goldberg, you'd better make sure your insurance is paid off!



His Corkscrew Powerslam has become one of the most feared moves in the sport.

While Bischoff certainly wouldn't survive a match against Goldberg, his nWo cohort, Curt Hennig, is an entirely different story. Hennig has been a champion everywhere he has appeared, and if anyone could tackle Goldberg head-on, it's the man who was once considered "Perfect." Goldberg's ways have angered Hennig so much that he challenged the U.S. champ to a match. On a recent Thunder, Hennig didn't mince words when speaking about Goldberg.

"You're the biggest mark I've ever seen in my life!" Hennig said. "If you want to step in the ring with me, I'm going to put a blemish on that record right now!" After waiting in vain for Goldberg to appear, Hennig said, "I know he doesn't have the guts to face me. I want the chance to defeat him in front of millions in Baltimore at the Great American Bash! He's like the Titanic of WCW, a big old boat built to sink! But you're going to run into an iceberg from Minnesota, and you're going down to the bottom of WCW never to see life again!"

With the stage set for Goldberg's biggest match, it will be sink or swim in Baltimore. Goldberg will be fighting not only Hennig, but if the past is any indication, the entire nWo organization. Facing Raven's Flock may have been a good warmup, but when dealing with the nWo, battling the Flock is like taking on the Yankees' AAA team and then the real deal.

Bill Goldberg sure looked impressive against Saturn at Slamboree.

"The Wrestler Formerly Known As Mr. Perfect," Curt Hennig, has challenged Goldberg at the Great American Bash.

With each match, Goldberg adds another devastating move to his arsenal.

Against Hennig, Goldberg better be ready for the big time or it will be curtains! If he should survive, the stakes will only get higher. The nWo will line up so they can try to get bragging rights at stopping Goldberg. Don't you think Hollywood Hogan or Scott Hall would like to add another notch to their impressive line of victories?

For now, Goldberg, continues to live the charmed life and love every minute of it. But the awesome Goldberg's good life could come crashing down if he's not careful in dealing with the nWo!

The Nation

Owen Hart vs. Hunter Hearst Helmsley

On a recent Raw Is War, it looked like Owen Hart was about to receive his usual double-cross at the hands of HHH and D-X.

HHH figured that Owen would end yet another night crying all alone. He was wrong.

"You smell what the Rock's cookin'?" Owen was backed up by his new partners the Rock and the Nation!

Gets A Hart!

The Rock and the Nation stare down a shocked D-X.

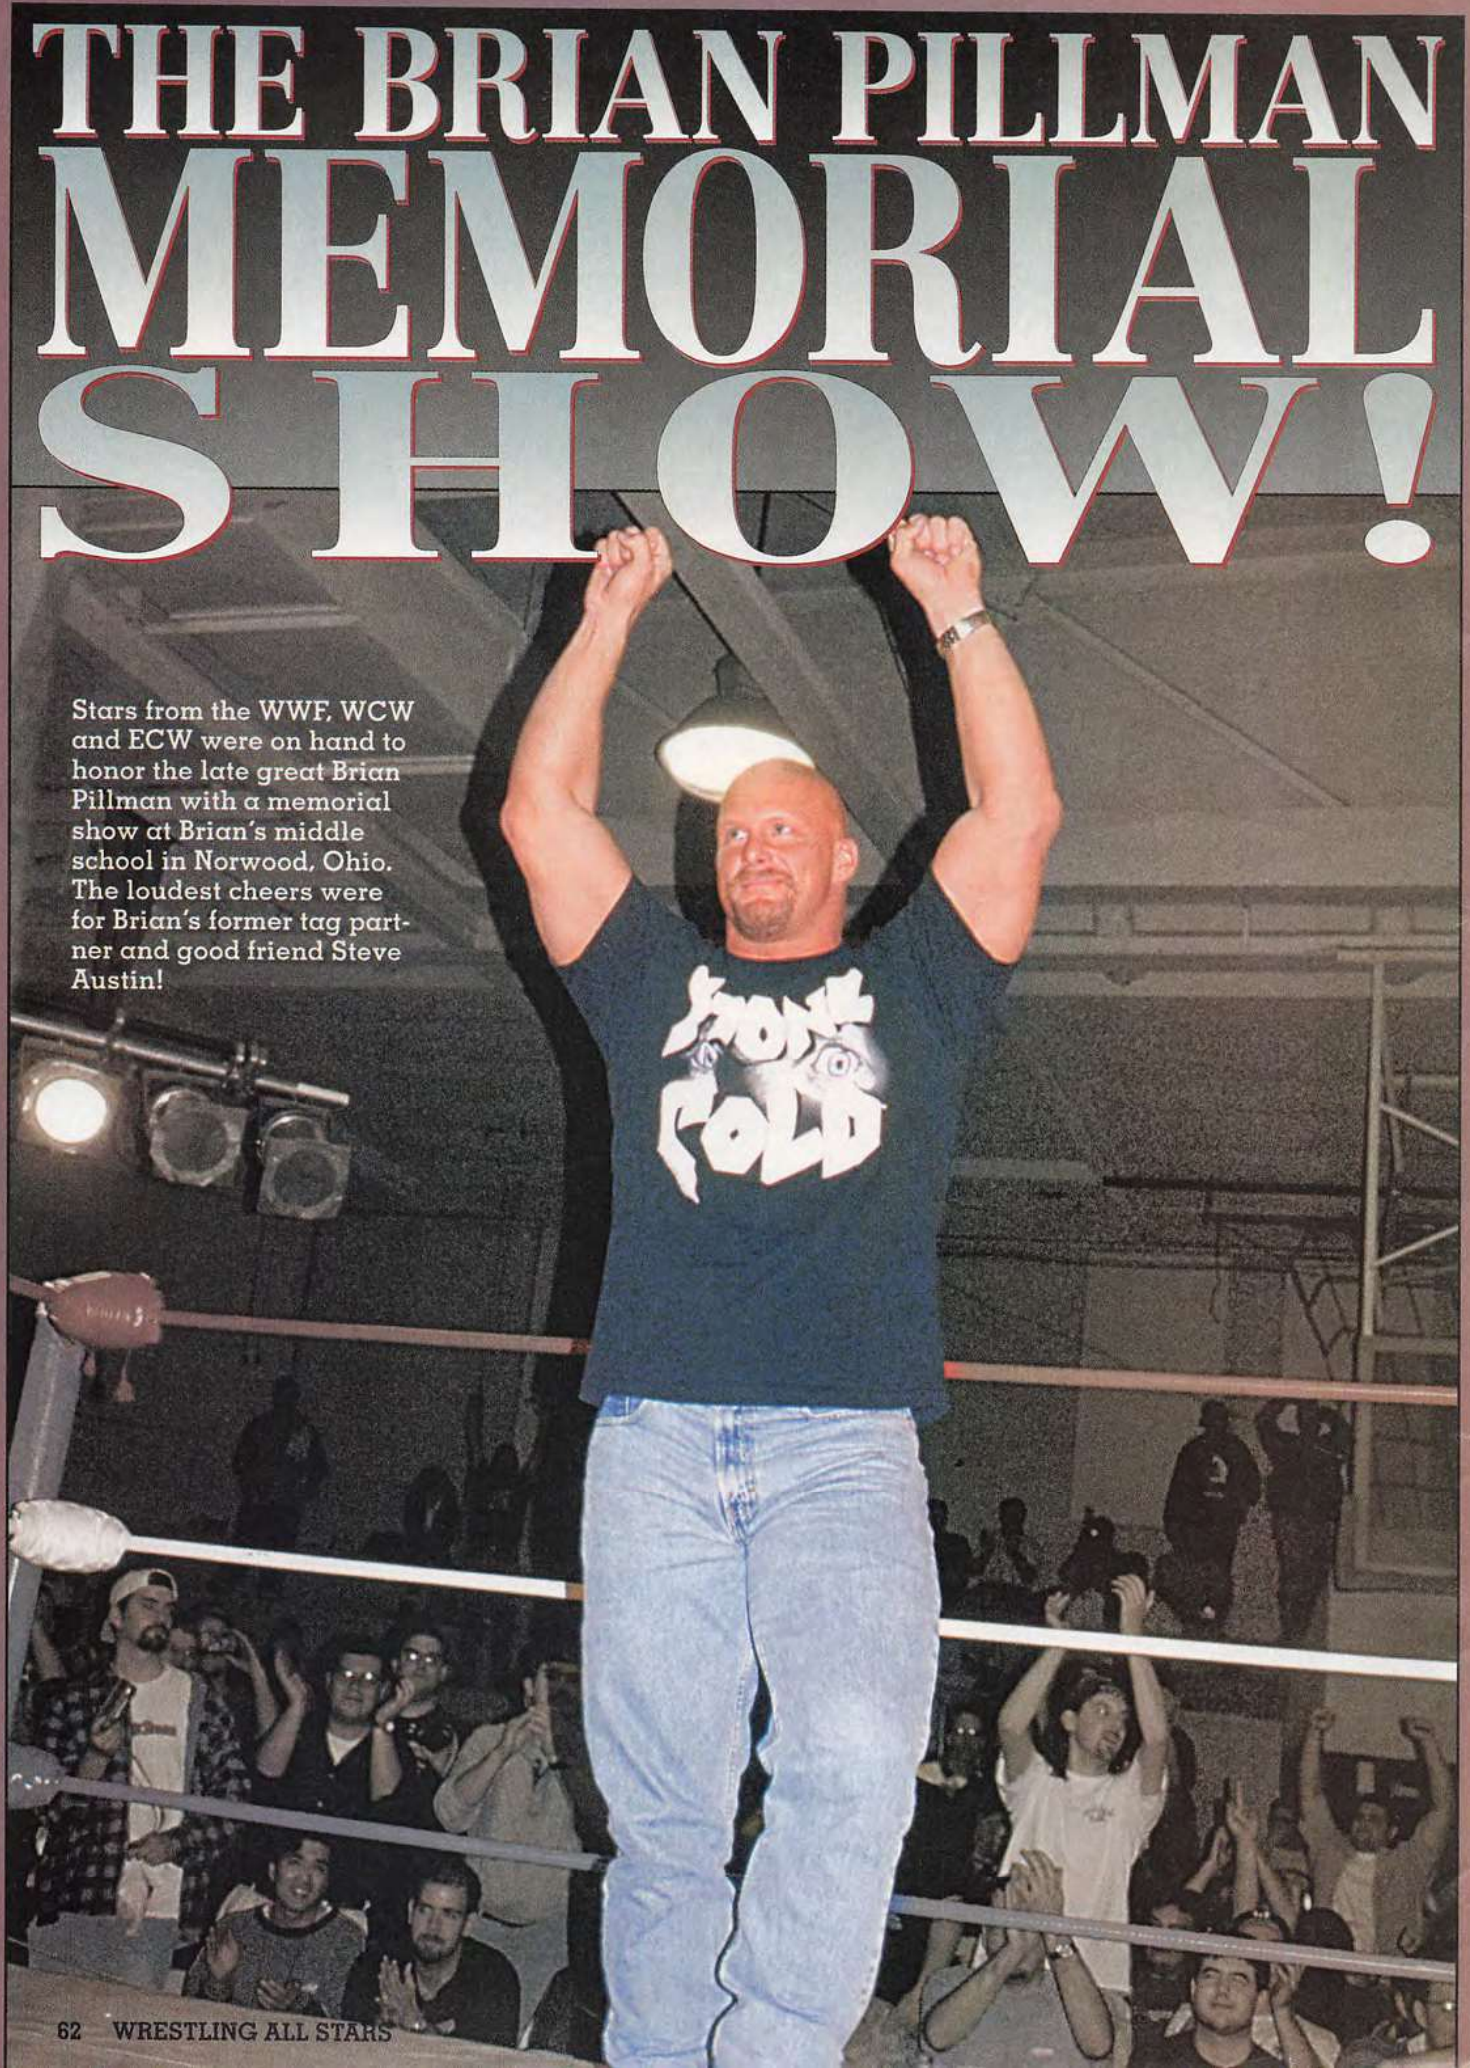
"This one's for Bret, and this one's for Bulldog..." Owen gets his licks in on HHH.

The Rock and the rest of the Nation prowled around the ring to make sure D-X didn't try their usual tricks.

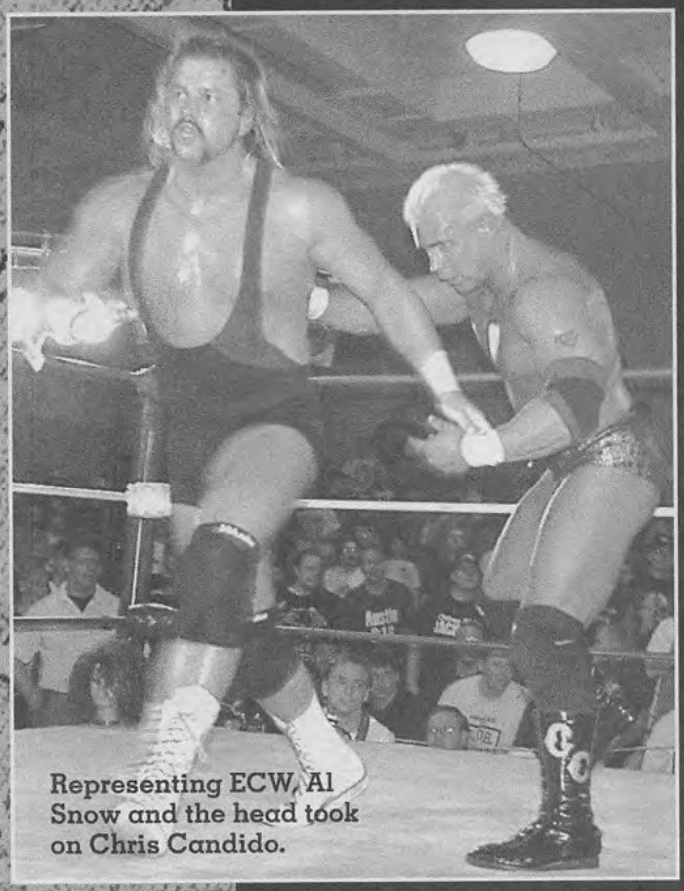
X-Pac pretends that Owen's name is Bischoff.

Things disintegrated into an all-out brawl between the WWF's top two groups.

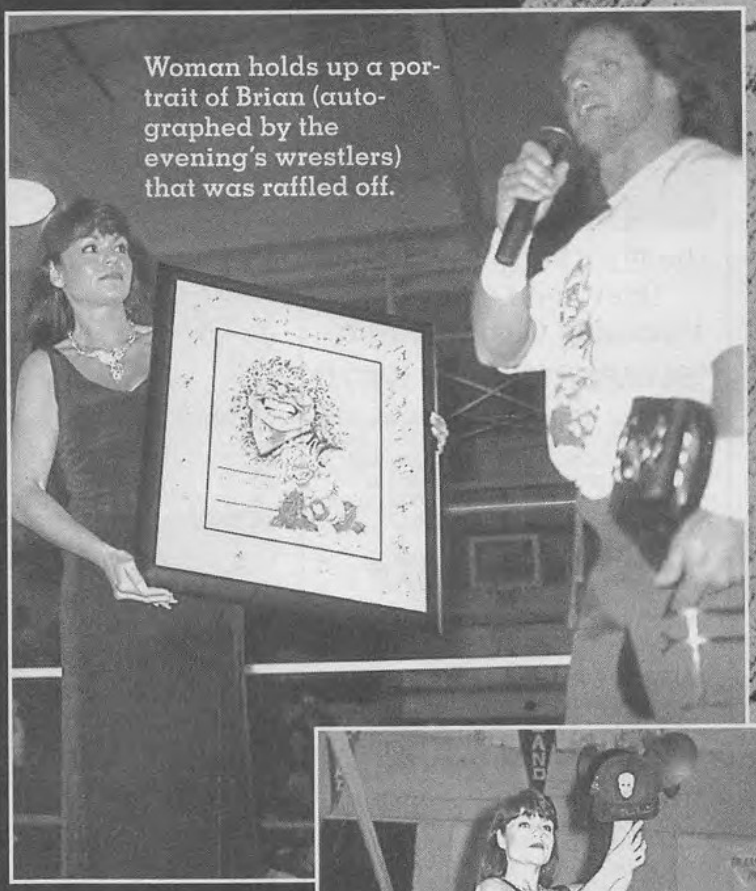
THE BRIAN PILLMAN MEMORIAL SHOW!



Stars from the WWF, WCW and ECW were on hand to honor the late great Brian Pillman with a memorial show at Brian's middle school in Norwood, Ohio. The loudest cheers were for Brian's former tag partner and good friend Steve Austin!

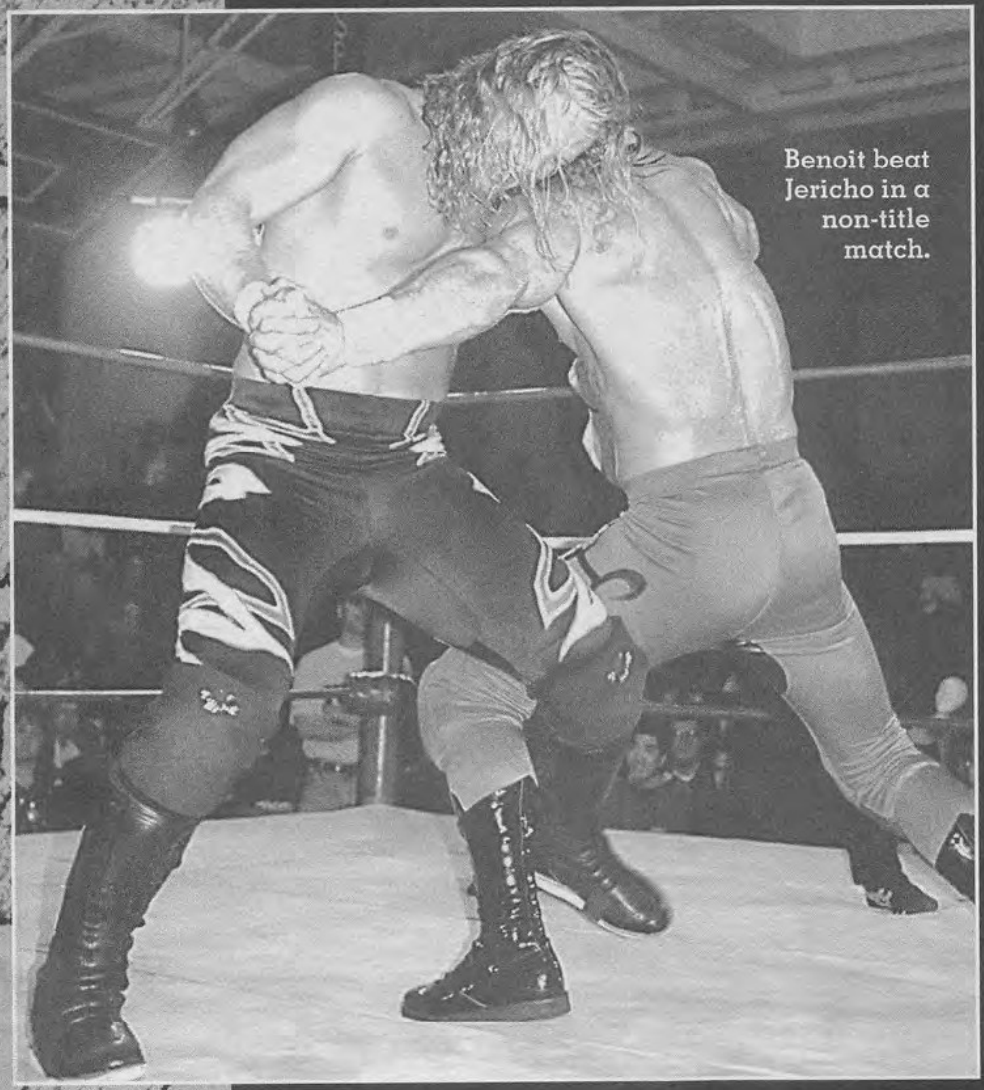


Representing ECW, Al Snow and the head took on Chris Candido.

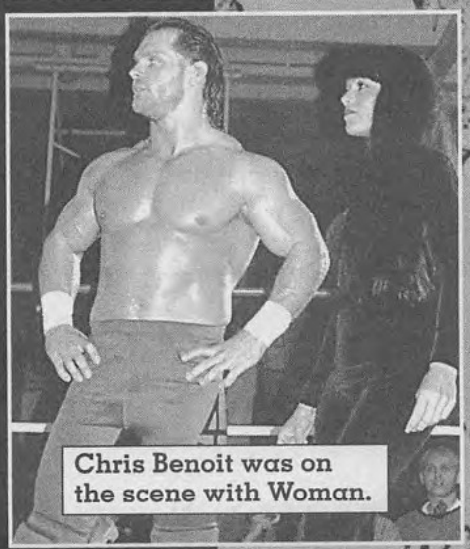


Woman holds up a portrait of Brian (autographed by the evening's wrestlers) that was raffled off.

Many items were auctioned off during the show which will help the Pillman family. Here, an autographed Stone Cold hat fetched hundreds of dollars.



Benoit beat Jericho in a non-title match.



Chris Benoit was on the scene with Woman.

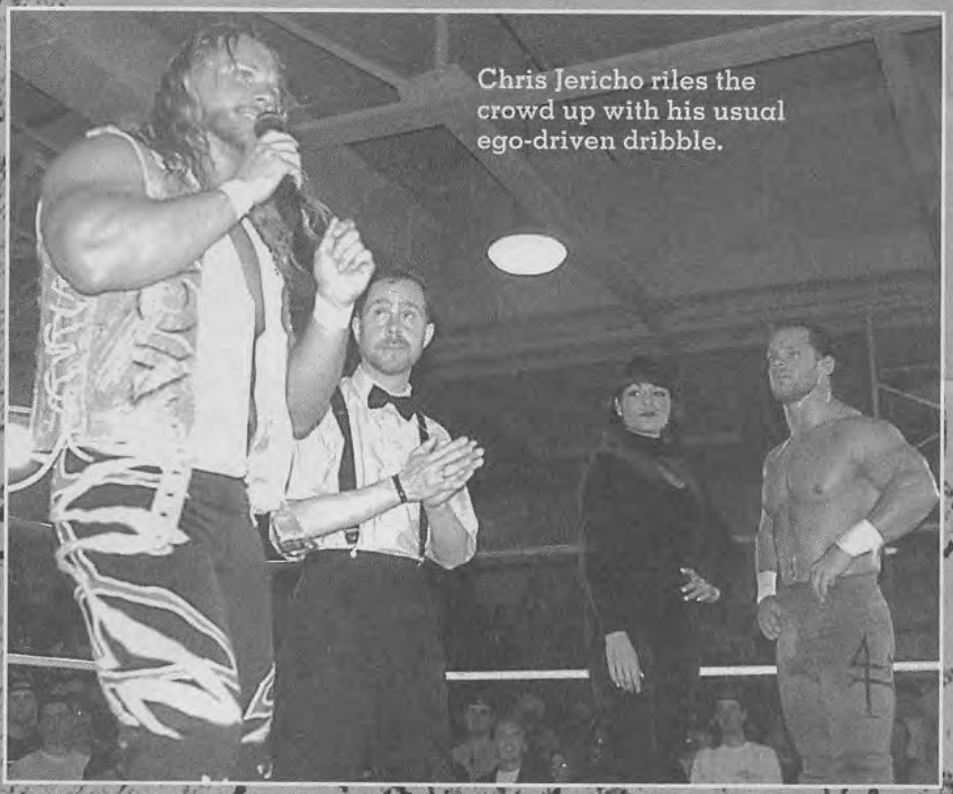
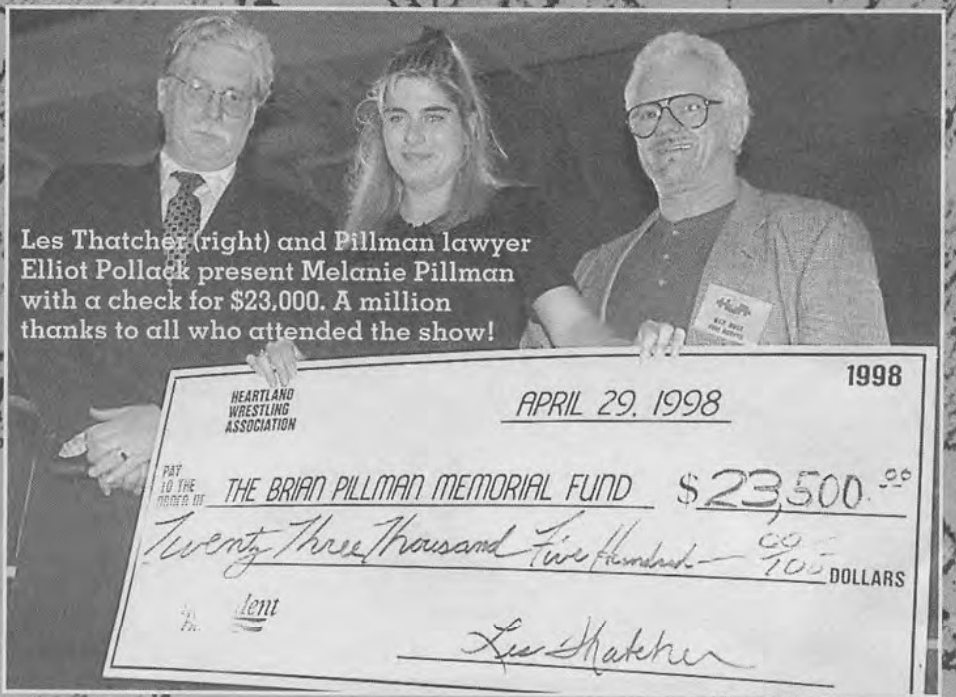
Sunny cradles a knocked-out Chris Candido, who was "be-headed."



Chris Jericho riles the crowd up with his usual ego-driven dribble.



Les Thatcher (right) and Pillman lawyer Elliot Pollack present Melanie Pillman with a check for $23,000. A million thanks to all who attended the show!

BRITTANY VS. STEVE: Exciting mixed competition! Brittany is both tough and gorgeous. She pounds Steve's stomach, chokes him, picks him up on her shoulders and spins him and slams him down continuously!

LEEANN VS. TOM: LeeAnn proves she loves to mess up pretty boys as she throws Tom into the ropes, punches his stomach, slams him down and jumps on him. A cruel beating!

SW-MX1 60mins. $49.95

THE CLASH OF THE BLOND BOMBSHELLS
Brittany vs. Jessica / Jessica vs. Taylor
Two beautiful blonds, Brittany wearing a skimpy thong bikini and Jessica in her sexy shear lace teddy. Hair pulling, head scissors, head mares and much more!!! The next match is another Fiery War between Busty Blonds! Taylor has quite a bit of wrestling experience! She loves the monkey flips. Choking in the ropes, hair pulling, arm stretches, leg holds.
SWT-37 50mins. $49.95

THUNDER & LIGHTNING
Taylor vs. Shay / LeeAnn vs. Daffney
Two beautiful busty blondes; Shay at 6' tall, goes after 5'5" Taylor with no holds barred! The sexy action includes monkey flips, head slams, choking, humiliating horsy rides & hair pulling. Next, a stormy battle between two of the meanest wrestlers we have! Black, strong and athletic just begins to describe Daffney. LeeAnn has her own history of violent and cruel matches. A hot and exciting match with a painful camel clutch submission!
SWT-38 60mins. $49.95

LISA VS. CRYSTAL
A competitive match between these two beauties. The outfits are sexy g-string one piece suits that can't stay in place. Hold after hold until Lisa gets Crystal in a twisted hold she can not escape from. Finally she realizes her defeat and submits. Body slams, back breakers, head lock take downs, hair mares, head mares, lots of hair pulling and head scissors!!
